8-Year-Old Novato Boy Dies As He Plunges In Swim Pool

CATERPILLAR INVASION — Rev. H. Gordon Birky manages rueful smile in front of his house at 69 Via Navarro, Greenbrae, as caterpillars crawl on him while he holds sprayer that has made scant headway in destroying horde that at times has made his home "black with caterpillars."

Heat Brings On Caterpillars; Especially ($!'%) In Greenbrae

Caterpillars are invading Marin.

Richard T. Straw, county agricultural commissioner said yesterday the hot weather spell has hatched so many tent caterpillars on Marin oak trees that complaints have flooded his office.

"We have received so many calls we haven't even tried to keep count of them," Straw said.

Two of the loudest came from Greenbrae.

Rev. H. Gordon Birky of 69 Via Navarro told the Independent-Journal his home was "black with caterpillars."

Mrs. Ralph V. Gulbransen of 81 Navarro, nearby, said she could not leave her house without stepping on caterpillars or having them crawl down her neck.

Both claimed the caterpillars came from Oak trees on land across the street owned by the Schultz interests.

Niels Schultz Jr. said Schultz Building Co. "could do nothing about spraying oak trees on private property because there is a forest of them all over Greenbrae." The trees have been preserved in subdividing to retain the beauty of the hills, he pointed out.

City Manager Ronald E. Piper of Larkspur, within which the Birky and Gulbransen homes are located, said the terrain is "nearly inaccessible to spraying equipment."

Rev. Birky said he had worked "two and a half hours a day for the last four days picking caterpillars off the house." He said he was exhausted.

Mrs. Gulbransen said oak trees across the street were "covered with webs" and she had been busy washing down her house with hose and broom.

The caterpillars aren't restricted to Greenbrae, Agricultural Commissioner Straw emphasized. Complaints have come from almost all parts of the county, he said.

Straw recommended that homeowners use a spray of a 50 per cent wettable DDT or 30 per cent solution of a product called Sevin.

At least a 15-gallon sprayer would be necessary to spray an oak tree, he said.

U.S. Proposes Four-Point Berlin Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is reported to have put before its Western Allies four sweeping ideas for possible U. S.-Soviet negotiations on Berlin, including a proposal for creation of an international authority to operate West Berlin supply lines with participation by East Germany.

The three other proposals circulated to London, Bonn and Paris earlier this week in talks with Moscow are:

1. The issuance of nonaggression declarations by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Communist Warsaw Pact together with guarantees against violation by either side of existing borders and boundary lines on the cold war frontiers in Europe.

The nonviolation pledge would have the effect of permitting both sides to preserve the security of existing demarcation lines, including the frontier between Germany and Poland. This would meet Soviet insistence on securing the Polish frontier, U. S. officials hope, while preserving the Western position that such boundaries can be finally determined only in a German peace treaty.

2. An agreement among the nuclear powers not to suppy nuclear weapons to any country not now possessing them. This is evidently designed to meet a Soviet demand for Western guarantees against West Germany's becoming a nuclear power. It would not, however, rule out the possibility of providing nuclear weapons to NATO or of maintaining on the territory of NATO allies nuclear forces controlled by the United States.

3. The establishment of committees of East and West Germans to deal with practical problems arising between the two German states.

Third Tragic Bathing Victim In Two Weeks

An 8-year-old Novato boy, who was an excellent swimmer, died yesterday after he dived into a backyard pool and hit his head on the sloping bottom.

The boy, Gary Barnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald E. Barnett of 1290 Parkwood Drive, failed to revive despite immediate artificial respiration efforts by Mrs. Ethel W. Field, his babysitter, and Mrs. Edwin McGillicuddy of Petaluma, her stepdaughter.

Minutes later, Novato firemen vainly used mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and a doctor and nurses at Novato Hospital fed oxygen to his lungs by tube and also gave him adrenalin—and massaged his heart.

The fatal dive took place at Mrs. Field's home at 1281 Lynwood Drive, Novato. The boy suffered left ear scratches and upper left cheek bruises. An autopsy was scheduled for today to determine the exact cause of death. Coronor Frank Keaton and his chief deputy, William Bradley, investigated the accident.

This was the second swimming tragedy in one week for Marin County residents. One week ago yesterday, a San Rafael High School coed and her 7-year-old niece drowned in the Russian River. Victims of that tragedy were Betty Beckius, 18, and Mary Lorinda (Missy) Sprasky, both of 1210 Second Street, San Rafael.

Mrs. Field gave this account: Gary, a second grade pupil at Lynwood School, arrived at her home about 2:15 p.m. Mrs. McGillicuddy was visiting with her five children, ranging in age from a few months to six years. Also being watched by the two women were three of Mrs. Field's six children, including Billy Field, 5.

Mrs. Field and her stepdaughter were on the patio near the pool while folding clothes for ironing. Gary had brought two Easter baskets home from school and ate all the candy including a large chocolate egg.

He wanted to go swimming immediately because "it's hot," but Mrs. Field asked him to wait until her daughter Doris, 8, his classmate, arrived. But he was eager to join Billy and Mrs. McGillicuddy's son, Rickey, 6, in the pool. They were at the shallow end of a 20-by-30 foot pool sloping from two feet deep at one end to seven feet at the other.

Mrs. McGillicuddy got Gary's swimming suit off the clothes line, and he changed.

All the children were wearing life jackets except Gary, said Mrs. Field. While Mrs. McGillicuddy was watching her own small children Gary joined Billy and Rickey in the pool at about 2:20 p.m. Gary liked to swim under water and to throw objects in and dive after them, said Mrs. Field.

He began throwing in a brightly colored plastic glass

Nixon Says No To Shell TV Debates

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Richard M. Nixon says he doesn't care to engage in a television debate with his leading contender for the Republican gubernatorial nomination

Assemblyman Joseph C. Shell of Los Angeles yesterday challenged Nixon to a debate on the issues in their primary campaign. Nixon declined, saying:

"Our fight, both now and after the primary, is with the present governor. It will only aid the opposition if Republicans spend their time debating with each other.

The present governor is Edmund G. Brown, a Democrat, who has expressed public delight with what he terms Shell's "bruising treatment" of the former vice president.

Shell, the Assembly minority leader, was informed last night of Nixon's decision. He told an audience at a suburban political gathering:

"I'm not amazed about it. I wouldn't want to debate national and international affairs with him and I am sure he wouldn't want to debate state affairs with me. But I'll keep asking.

Nixon—who did debate with John F. Kennedy in the 1960 presidential campaign that Kennedy won—indicated he wasn't apt to change his mind. He said he regarded his and Shell's differences as "relatively minor."

Subpoenas Ordered For Steel Firms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Subpoenas were ordered today against 12 big steel companies by a Senate subcommittee which pressed its antitrust investigation despite the industry's pell mell retreat from a $6-a-ton price increase.

U.S. marshals were set to serve the subpoenas which demand that the firms produce cost records for the Senate antimonopoly group headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.).

The action was clear evidence that the threat of both congressional and justice department action still hung over "big steel" even though the industry surrendered to President John F. Kennedy in the struggle over the price hike.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said yesterday after the steel companies rescinded the price rise that a federal grand jury inquiry in New York into possible anti-trust violations would proceed.

Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) announced today that he would introduce legislation Monday aimed at breaking up the bigger steel companies and giving the government a check-rein on future price increase moves.

He proposed that steel price hikes be made subject to the 80-day "cooling off" procedure which the president can invoke under the Talt-Hartley Labor-Management Law. Gore also advocated creation of a national consumers advisory board.

Hamilton Wife Is Jailed —'Tried To Burn Home'

The wife of an Air Force officer was jailed last night for allegedly attempting to fire her home at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Mrs. Irma Helen Howk, 43, of 221 West Kelly Drive was arrest by Novato Police Officer Merkley Donal at 10:15 p.m. Officer Floyd Hollowell reported that she apparently tried to set fire to the living room of the residence.

She is the wife of Lt. Col. Leon Howk of the 28th Air Division, according to Capt. Llyle Barker, public information officer at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Hollowell said that Donal made the arrest after he was summoned by Air Police who charged that Mrs. Howk was disorderly and attempting to set fire to the residence.

Hamilton Air Force Base firemen, who arrived at the Howk residence six minutes after Donal, reported minor damage to upholstered living room furniture and carpet. Firemen said that the fire was extinguished before their arrival.

Mrs. Howk was booked at the county jail last night on suspision of disturbing the peace and arson. She was held in jail today pending setting of bail. She was reported to have complained this morning of minor hand burns.

IF YOU HAVEN'T FILED YET: HURRY!

If you haven't filed your income tax returns yet, you have only one more working day. Deadline for filing both federal and state income tax returns is Monday.

First Invasion Prisoners Flown To U.S, From Cuba

MIAMI (UPI) — Sixty wounded and ill captives of last year's Cuban invasion — ransomed for more than 2.5 million U. S. dollars — returned today to freedom and a tumultuous welcome from 20,000 of their refugee countrymen.

Stepping onto free soil for the first time in a year amid a cheering, hankerchief-waving throng at Miami's international airport, the prisoners announced in a statement they would "consider ourselves prisoners until the last one of our companions is at liberty."

Should efforts fail to ransom the 1,119 captives remaining in Havana's Principe Prison, the returning men said, then "we would voluntarily return."

The four members of the Cuban families committee negotiating team revealed that they promised Cuban Premier Fidel Castro 2.5 million dollars, to be deposited in a Canadian bank, for the release of the first 54 captives returning today. They did not report how much was paid for the six additional prisoners whose release was negotiated yesterday.

Big Steel's Price Hike Surrender Called Major Triumph For President

COMBINED AP & UPI

WASHINGTON — President John F. Kennedy has increased his personal prestige and put Republicans on the political defensive with a smashing breakthrough against Big Steel's price increases.

The action yesterday by the two biggest companies, U.S. Steel and Bethlehem, in rescinding a $6-a-ton price rise obviously was forced by a White House power play that combined the elements of public opinion and threats of retaliation.

Like a row of dominoes, other major companies fell in line after Bethlehem toppled under presidential pressure.

From this successful battle with big business Kennedy emerged with a newly established reputation as a dragon killer of the school of one of his favorite predecessors, Theodore Roosevelt.

He demonstrated that when a president summons all the means at his command — as Kennedy did in this instance—few can compete.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, acting Senate Democratic leader, said the outcome "underscores that, when the president exerts his leadership and puts the facts before the people, using the prestige of the government of the United States, he is difficult to defeat."

This enhanced prestige for Kennedy seemed likely to pay off for Democrats who rallied vigorously to his cause when he denounced the price increase after steel had signed what the president had regarded as a noninflationary wage pact with the United Steelworkers Union.

European newspapers reacted with blazing headlines that seemed something akin to awe.

Typical one was the (London) Daily Herald: "Kennedy Tames The Steel Kings."

The London Evening News said it tried to conjure up the "unlikely" picture of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan doing battle with British steel industry leaders. But the papers financial commentator did not mention that steel prices here are controlled by the government's iron and steel board.

Two individual British steelmen said they tended to understand the position of their American counterparts. But they said a price increase would appear to be inflationary.

The Daily Express reported, "The single-minded fury with which Kennedy turned on the steel giants amazed them with its intensity.

"Nothing like it has been seen since the days of the New Deal . . . the man in the White House has brought big business to heel to win the biggest political victory of his career."

Dutch Yielding On New Guinea

THE HAGUE, Holland (UPI) The Netherlands cabinet is ready to transfer Dutch New Guinea to Indonesia providing the United Nations guarantees self-determination to the Papuans and sends a strong observer corps there, well-informed sources said today.

The Dutch expect both acting U. N. Secretary General Thant and the United States to show understanding for the Dutch view that Holland must keep its pledge to the Papauns to give them the free choice of independence the sources said.

Last night, after a 12-hour meeting, the cabinet decided not to reject the American mediation proposals drafted by former U. S. Ambassador to India Ellsworth Bunker. But it was clear that the cabinet was not ready to accept Bunker's suggestions either.

Bunker's plans suggested a transfer of Dutch New Guinea to Indonesia within two years during an interim period of U. N. administration. But the plan, according to the Dutch sources, did not contain specific guarantees for self-determination for the Papuans.

Russ Matzoh Ban

NEW YORK (AP)—A Soviet U.N. official, commenting on the Russian ban on matzoh, says the state gave up making it because "It was a waste of money."

A group of Jewish students went to the Soviet U.N. mission yesterday to protest the government ban against making Passover matzoh.

L. A. Gouliev, first secretary of the mission, said state bakeries have made matzohs but they wasted money "because much of it was not used."

Lost Sub: 70 Bodies

KURE, Japan (AP)—A Japanese submarine sunk by the British navy off the Malaya Peninsula during World War II has been refloated and 70 bodies of its crew recovered. The Hokusei Salvage Co. here said today.

The 2,547-ton sub, I-34, was sunk by British torpedo bombers off Penang in the Malacca Strait on Oct. 13, 1943, while en route to Germany. She was carrying 99 crew members and strategic materials. Fourteen reportedly escaped.

GEN. EDMOND JOUHAUD
Death sentence

Facing Guillotine

PARIS (AP) — Condemned to death as a leader of the terrorist fight against Algerian independence, ex-Gen. Edmond Jouhaud today faced the guillotine or firing squad unless President Charles de Gaulle extends clemency.

The former French air force chief who turned anti-Gaullist to work in the European Secret Army Organization in his native Algeria, was sentenced last night by a special high military court as defiant shouts of "Algerie Francaise" rang out in the packed chamber.

Barring a presidential act, there is no appeal from the verdict. Defense attorney Yves Perrussel indicated in his closing statement at the three-day trial that Jouhaud would not seek pity from de Gaulle.

King Arrests Son

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Saud of Saudi Arabia has ordered the arrest of one of his sons for running into two persons with his automobile, Mecca radio reported.

The broadcast said young Prince Fawaz ran down the two in the main street of Riyadh, Saudi Arabian capital, and will stand trial as an ordinary citizen.

One of the injured suffered a broken leg. The other was severely bruised.

Legislature's 40-Day Session Is Adjourned

SACRAMENTO (AP) —The 1962 legislature has adjourned, leaving the final say-so on a wide assortment of measures to the governor and the voters.

The 40-day session, which fought out compromises on most of its issues, dwindled to a close yesterday afternoon with little of the traditional horseplay.

The final action? Agreement on two alternative measures to raise the pay of legislators from the present $6,000 a year. They'll show up on the crowded November ballot.

PAY BOOST

One proposal, by outgoing Sen. Stanford C. Shaw (D-Ontario), would boost the salary to $10,000.

The other, by Assemblyman Vernon Kilpatrick (D-Lynwood) would peg it at half the pay of congressmen—or $11,250—but with no retirement increases for members now retired.

The legislature submitted six other measures to the voters in the June 5 primary. Five are bond issues totalling 970 million dollars. The sixth would extend daylight savings time from the end of September to the end of October.

Gov. Edmund Brown, out campaigning, issued a statement congratulating the legislature for "a job well done."

BALANCED BUDGET

"We have another balanced budget that will meet the needs of this growing state, and we have the most of the important legislation requested in the special session," he said.

Brown came through an Assembly Democratic-Republican deadlock, and defeat of his first budget, with a 2.887-billion-dollar spending bill, two million more than he asked in February.

The Senate finished up at 3:35 p.m. amid a moderate explosion of firecrackers. The Assembly, waiting for conferees to work out terms on the legislative salary measures, didn't close down until 4:08 p.m.

"This has been a progressive session," said Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh (D-Los Angeles), who had the final word.

"While we have had many partisan differences, the net result is a program of benefit to all the people of California."

Down To The Sea And Ships

WITH KENNEDY ON ATLANTIC MANEUVERS (AP) — The Navy paraded its might before President John F. Kennedy today.

In brilliant sunshine, 48 ships of the Atlantic Fleet formed in parallel rows to pass in review on either side of the presidential command ship Northampton, lying off the Carolina coast.

Afterward Kennedy got into a helicopter and flew to the aircraft carrier Enterprise to view more sea and air maneuvers.

The review opened a day in which the Navy uncorked blazing missiles and waves of Marines plunging ashore for Kennedy's perusal.

There were antisubmarine, carrier firepower and missile-hurling exercises.

The president sailed aboard the Northampton from Norfolk, Va. Friday down the Atlantic Coast to a rendezvous with the fleet.

From the shore at Camp Lejeune, N.C., where he will be joined by the visiting shah of Iran, the president will watch thousands of Marines storm Onslow Beach.

The Atlantic Fleet — from Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth, Adm. George W. Anderson Jr., chief of naval operations, and Gen. David M. Shoup, Marine Corps commandant, through thousands of sailors and leathernecks — was out to show the president that the Navy plans a major role in the nation's defenses.

An evening drizzle broke into a fair night sky from Norfolk, Va., to the rendezvous point aboard the 677-foot Northampton, a seagoing command post that could serve as floating headquarters for the President and the Joint Chiefs of Staff in case of war.

The Northampton was loaded with brass. Since Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson never travels by air or sea with the President, he sailed on the carrier Forrestal.

Among them were Sen. Richard B. Russell and Rep. Carl A. Vinson, both Georgia Democrats and chairmen of the Senate and House Armed Services Committees.

Kennedy flew by jet to the naval air station at Oceana, Va., late yesterday afternoon. After inspecting the Marine honor guard there in the gusty wind, he was whisked by helicopter to Atlantic Fleet headquarters at the Norfolk, Va., Navy base.

There he was briefed. He also briefly toured the nuclear submarine Thomas A. Edison.

Nikita Sets Stage For Nuclear Race

MOSCOW (AP) — The stage was set today for a nuclear arms race as Premier Nikita Khrushchev vowed to match Western nuclear tests blast for blast — underwater, underground, in the atmosphere, even in space.

Khrushchev has rejected a last-chance appeal from President John F. Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to accept a controlled end to nuclear testing and head off American tests scheduled for later this month in the Pacific.

Kennedy and Macmillan had asked Khrushchev in a statement earlier this week to reconsider the Soviet refusal to accept any form of international controls within a test-ban treaty.

Khrushchev's answer, in a note distributed by the Soviet news agency Tass and broadcast by Moscow radio, declared that the Soviet Union could not accept the Western plan because Russia refused to permit "unhampered intelligence" over its territory.

Instead, Khrushchev urged the Western powers to show more trust in the Soviet Union and accept its proposals for an unpoliced test ban treaty. Otherwise, he declared, "the implementation of your declared decision to hold tests compels us to prepare and hold tests of our nuclear weapons."

"And in the future, your holding of nuclear weapon tests underground or in the atmosphere, in space or underwater, will force the Soviet Union to hold tests of its own nuclear weapons so that the defense of the Soviet bloc . . . would be at an appropriate level," the statement said.

Can't Keep 'Em Away From School

Saturday Science Class Attracts 32 Youngsters

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Thirty-two youngsters went to school for three hours today at San Rafael's E Street School, after putting in their regular five-day school week.

They did it just because they wanted to.

They've been doing it each Saturday since March 10, except for skipping last week to attend the Bay Area Science Fair.

These 32 don't need the extra school work to keep up their classes; quite the contrary. They are among San Rafael School District's brightest youngsters, enrolled in what the schools call the "more able learner" program.

The E Street classroom they employ has been out of use for regular classes since before last Christmas vacation. The school property will be put up for sale as soon as some discrepancies in an involved title to the land are quieted. But it is having a last fling as meeting place for the eager 32 in the "MAL" class.

Subject of the special Saturday class is chemistry, but its scope is broad. It meets at 9 a.m. and continues to noon, with one hour of lecture and demonstration, one hour of laboratory work and one hour of discussion.

Ten pupils from each of the district's two junior high schools—Davidson and Santa Venetia, plus 10 sixth graders from throughout the district and one fifth grader make up the class.

Robert Shore, coordinator of the "more able learner" program, said there were many more candidates urged by teachers, but 32 was set as the limit the class could accommodate.

A guest lecturer instructs each class. Today's was Keith MacNab of San Anselmo, on leave from his job as science teacher at Sir Francis Drake High School for a National Science Foundation study at University of California to develop a new high school chemistry course. It was his second appearance.

First lecturer was Mrs. Robert O. Bolt of San Rafael, who holds a master of science degree from Purdue University and formerly worked in food chemistry at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's western regional laboratory in Albany.

The next two seminars were instructed by Aubrey McClellan of El Cerrito, senior research chemist at California Research Corp. in Richmond. Other scheduled "guest artists" are Robert O. Bolt (husband of the first lecturer) and Robert J. Houston, also of San Rafael, both senior research chemists at California Research, and Norman N. Goldstein Jr., physiology teacher at Drake High who is directing a project for the engineering and science extension of University of California under a National Science Foundation grant.

Serving as laboratory assistants are four San Rafael High School seniors, Lynn Everett, Don Guttman, Mike Rhoades and Gary Summers.

Some of the subjects: "The Three States of Matter," "Liquids and Solutions," "Gases," "Solids and Crystal Structure," "Energy and Energy Transformations," "Nuclear Energy" and "Energy in Living Things."

Students have made air thermometers, made and tested fluid to baking soda mixture in carbon dioxide, determined concentration by evaporation, and done many other experiments.

There is no problem with attendance at the "MAL class." The youngsters don't dare miss; too many others are waiting to take their places.

Subdued Public Enemy No. 1 Moved From Prison On 'Rock'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Back in the late 1920s and early 1930s when gangsters had nicknames like "Scarface Al" and "Baby Face," "Old Creepy" Karpis was the one the FBI wanted most — Public Enemy Number One.

When Alvin Karpis was captured in 1936 while strolling to a theater in New Orleans, FBI director J. Edgar Hoover closed the book on a personal vendetta and the nation at large felt an era of killing, kidnaping and highway robbery was at an end.

Karpis was a contemporary of John Dillinger, "Pretty Boy" Floyd, and Frank (Shotgun) Goetz. He was a leader of the infamous Karpis-Barker gang, presided over by the notorious "Ma" Barker.

After his capture in New Orleans, Karpis was convicted of the 1934 kidnaping of St. Paul, Minn., banker Edward G. Bremer. Bremer paid a $200,000 ransom after 21 days of captivity. Karpis was sent to Alcatraz prison for life.

Alcatraz Warden O. G. Blackwell announced Wednesday that Karpis, now 53, had been transferred from Alcatraz after 25 years in the home of the nation's toughest federal prisoners. He was transferred to McNeil Island Federal Penitentiary in Puget Sound, Wash.

Blackwell said that Karpis's record merited a transfer to a less rigid institution. The onetime gangster reportedly became an adept baker, a skillful landscape artist and an expert business machine operator while serving his quarter-century on "The Rock."

"Old Creepy" grew up in Montreal but achieved most of his notoriety on the American side of the border. He was often in gun battles with police and was linked to at least one other high-ransom kidnaping in the 1930s—that of wealthy brewer William J. Hamm Jr. of St. Paul.

For the past 10 years at Alcatraz, parole hearings have been held for Karpis, and each time parole has been denied. Again this year he asked for parole. He made his bid in a letter to Frank Roberts, executive director of the Catholic Rehabilitation Service in Montreal.

But there were indications that his path to freedom would be blocked by the long-ago slaying of a Missouri sheriff.

A prosecutor in Howell County, Mo., reminded prison authorities that Karpis is charged in West Plains, Mo., with the slaying of Sheriff C. R. Kelly in December, 1931.

The charge was not filed until 1951, when Missouri authorities were notified that Karpis was eligible for parole.

The complaint was filed by the widow of the sheriff, who was slain when he entered a commercial garage to investigate the occupants of a car which matched the description of one involved in two robberies.

It was before my time," said Prosecutor Harold Henry, "but I have heard about it and I know that any parole for Karpis would be opposed here.

"People have not forgotten."

Russell Smith Named Ross Mayor Pro Tem

Russell Smith, a retired banker, was appointed Ross mayor pro tem Thursday night at a meeting of the Ross Town Council.

The appointment is good for only five days. Next Tuesday at 8 p.m. the council must meet again to canvass the results of last Tuesday's election and to reorganize.

The interim appointment was necessary because of absence in Europe of John Witter who has held the post. It was felt that as a technicality the council should name a brief backstop to Mayor Harry C. Scott Jr.

Following the lead of other Marin County cities, the council passed an ordinance calling for county inspection of food handlers at no municipal cost.

On planning matters the council allowed D. H. Gabrielsen, recent purchaser of the Vincent Hallinan property, to divide it into three parcels, but disapproved a similar three-parcel application by Michael Kaplan relating to property on Lagunitas Road.

The council raised John Harris, recently appointed policeman, to the status of assistant police chief under Joseph Regoni, his salary going to $500 monthly from $475. Leslie Flowers, who has been assistant chief, has been incapacitated by an injury last November and is to retire May 1.

Gallinas Sewers To Be Cleaned

Sewers in Gallinas Village will be cleaned out next month.

Directors of the Gallinas Village Community Services District Thursday agreed to hire Rodding and Cleaning Machines Inc. of Los Angeles to clean out the district sewer lines. Cost of the project will be 9½ cents a foot, and work will begin May 1.

John Berry of 101 Vendola Drive was hired to replace H. E. King as district maintenance man. King resigned to go into private business.

Directors also authorized $200 for landscaping and tree planting at the main entrance to Gallinas Village.

Sophomore Attend Disarm Discussion

Cheryll Lynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Juan J. Lynn, 237 Humboldt Street, San Rafael, and a sophomore at Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah, attended the fourth annual Air Force Academy Assembly at Colorado Springs, Colo., last week.

The assembly for college students was held to discuss "Disarmament and Arms Control."

Arches On Bridge Strongly Opposed

Mrs. T. E. Wellman of Kentfield told the Golden Gate Bridge District directors yesterday that "some of us are so strongly against having traffic arches on the bridge" that they will have a representative attend meetings of the bridge board and its committees.

She was assured that she and her group, which she did not identify, would be invited to be present at any committee meetings in which the arches are to be discussed.

Most Rev. Joseph T. McGucken, new archbishop of San Francisco, will make his first official visit to Marin Sunday since his appointment to head the Catholic archdiocese.

Archbishop McGuffin will administer the sacrament of confirmation to 81 pupils at St. Vincent's School for Boys north of San Rafael, announced Msgr. Clement J. McKenna, director of the school.

It will be the archbishop's first appearance in Marin since his installation, April 3.

U.S. Funds Sought For School In Lagunitas

Lagunitas School District will seek National Defense Education Act funds for mathematics and science projects, its board decided Thursday night.

Contemplated is a total outlay of $2,400, half of which would be reimbursed by the federal government if the Lagunitas proposal is accepted.

The board also voted to participate in the county's special education program, as well as the countywide audit of district books.

Unlicensed scooters on school grounds were considered but found not a menace so no action was taken.

The board took under study a proposal for establishment of a Bay Area Research Service to Improve Education.

Resignations of two teachers, Mrs. Franc Ramsaur and Mrs. Dorothy Lenz, were accepted.

It was decided to hold an open house at 7:30 p.m. May 3, preceded by 7 p.m. dedication of five new classrooms, a multipurpose room, an administrative unit and auxiliary facilities.

Rocks Thrown At Mill Valley Homes

Two Mill Valleyans have reported to police that rocks had been thrown at their windows.

Mrs. Robert L. Steere said that at 9:01 p.m. Thursday a rock was thrown through an upstairs bedroom window at her home at 45 Elm Avenue. It was the second such happening, she said. Chester A. Fisher of 127 Walnut Avenue reported someone had thrown a rock at his window Thursday morning.

Accident Car Under Control

A car into which a Novato boy ran on Wednesday was under better control than a story in Thursday's Independent-Journal made it appear.

The car, driven by Mrs. Shirley Lucille Cummings of 612 Trumbull Avenue, Novato, skidded five and one-half feet after 5-year-old David Kiner ran into it, according to the Novato police report. It appeared as 52 feet in the Independent-Journal story.

David, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kiner of Apt. 4, 1771 Grant Avenue, was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital, where he was transferred yesterday from Novato Hospital. He suffered head injuries.

Female Dependency Based Not On Sex–Birth Order

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—A new scientific insight into a human mystery indicates the so-called emotional dependency of the female is based less upon sex than upon the order of birth.

This insight comes from psychological experimentation which revealed that first-born females are strongly inclined toward emotional independence. They're individualists who are hard to influence.

It belongs to a string of scientific findings which point to a need for change in traditional ideas about femaleness. It could be female attitudes are not entirely inborn.

The experimentation was that of Dr. Edward E. Sampson of University of California at Berkeley. He subjected 265 males and females to a series of psychological tests in which their order of birth was the key consideration.

He found the first-borns of either sex had a greater need for personal achievement than those who had been second or later children. First-born males were less independent of mind than later born males but first-born females were more independent than females who were down in the birth order.

In seeking to explain these findings Dr. Sampson pointed out the first-born female is pushed into the traditional female role at a very early age. Her place in life is waiting for her at birth. She quickly becomes mother's helper around the house. In due course she is involved in rearing the younger children.

This amounts to training in independence and responsibility. Younger sisters don't get it. The result, Dr. Sampson reasoned, is a built-in resistance in big sister to outside influences and it is the making of the female mind which is anything but dependent.

But the first - born male doesn't get this parental pressure, he continued. His role in life is not waiting for him. There's no telling what he will be when he grows up. The result may be a male mind which is less independent than the female mind at the head of another birth order.

First-borns of either sex are involved equally in competition with the later-arrivals for the love and approval of parents, and this Sampson felt, explained the greater need of first-borns for achievement in adult life.

First-born females have an advantage over first-born males in this regard. The more responsibility and independence they show in helping mother with the nursery chores, the greater is the parental approval.

"This does not mean that the male is not approved for exhibiting independent, responsible behavior," Dr. Sampson said in his report to the American Psychological Assn.

"It does mean, however, that the parents expect greater responsibility at an earlier age from the female, apply greater pressure to the female to show it, and express greater approval when she exhibits such responsible, independent behavior."

Dope Is Found In Hotel Room —Two Jailed

Two Sausalitans have been jailed after 69 buttons of mescal, from which the stimulant drug peyoti is derived, were found in the room one of them had rented at a Sausalito hotel.

Booked on a charge of possession of narcotics was Wilford Robert Porter, 27, of the Del Monte Hotel,in whose room the mescal buttons were found.

Booked for parole violation, "en route to the Los Angeles County sheriff's office," was Daniel E. McCausland, 22, of the Bamboo Inn.

Police Chief Howard Goerndt said checkup on a late night street loiterer led to the arrests. McCausland, he said, was questioned when found loitering late Tuesday. His name was sent to the State Criminal Identification Bureau and it was learned he was a parole violator.

Thursday about noon, he was arrested. He gave police information which led them to McCausland.

CHURCH GOERS—This is what it looks like some Saturdays as members go to Confession at Sacred Heart Catholic Church at Point Reyes Station. BUILT IN 1914

Sacred Heart, Country Parish

By PAUL MILLER

A spring afternoon of enjoying county air, eating barbecued chicken and seeing friends.

That's what's ahead tomorrow on Palm Sunday — a day of celebration — for the members and friends of Sacred Heart Catholic Church at Point Reyes Station, a parish built and named for the fathers of the Order of the Sacred Heart in 1914.

The annual barbecue starts at noon at Point Reyes Community Center, called the Red Barn, formerly a railroad roundhouse.

Sacred Heart, pastored by Rev. Richard Barron, serves northwest Marinites, including dairy ranchers, cattlemen, builders, haulers, merchants, professional men and retired persons who make up most of the Catholic population of the aesthetic Point Reyes-Inverness area. Many of them are of Swiss-Italian or Irish ancestry.

Father Barron is also pastor of the St. Mary Magdalen Mission at Bolinas. The sanctuary, used today, was built in 1878, and seats about 140 worshipers. Sacred Heart Parish seats about 10 more persons and in the summer has standing room only because of the tourists who attend Father Barron's Masses. He holds three each Sunday during the summer.

The 11-year country padre is actually a city slicker, but has taken on the rural robes with grace and gratitude. Father Barron is a graduate of St. Patrick's Seminary in Menlo Park and was ordained in St. Mary's Cathedral in June, 1930. He was assistant pastor at St. Colomba's and St. Anthony's in Oakland, at St. Gertrude's in Stockton, and then served as pastor of churches in suburbs of Livermore, Centerville, Piedmont and Corpus Christi. He was assigned to Point Reyes Station in 1951 and is highly thought of by his Marin parishioners, attest Dr. and Mrs. Frederick, members.

Born and reared in San Francisco, Father Barron says of his present home: "In a larger city everything is more or less cut and dried: regular calls, appointments, societies, and so on. You have these to a minimum in the country. More time is spent in traveling between parishes, and visiting persons at work and at home.

"The people here are very friendly, co-operating, accommodating and encouraging. This community is one of the most beautiful in California, and as yet little touched, compared to others like it."

When Father Barron first came to his two churches in Marin they were practically empty on Sundays—now they overflow and a new church building is proposed for Point Reyes Station.

Sacred Heart was originally in Olema and called the Parish of Our Lady of Lourdes of Olema. It comprised the missions at Point Reyes Station, Bolinas, Lagunitas, Nicasio and later Novato. It was served on horseback by circuit riding priests from parishes in Novato, Petaluma, Sausalito and San Rafael. During the three-day trip the padres would stay in the homes of members.

In 1909, the Olema parish was taken over by the Fathers of Sacred Heart, who had formed the order in Belgium. In 1911, a 13-room residence was built for them on three and one-half acres of land in Olema. The fathers later moved to Honolulu, Hawaii, and in 1923, the Olema church closed and the more active life of Sacred Heart church in Point Reyes began. Father Barron has his quarters in the Olema residence.

A populated future is foreseen for both his warm, quaint parishes and the Point Reyes area, and the probable change is viewed with mixed emotions.

San Anselmans At Babs Hutton Party

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

Two long time friends of heiress Barbara (Babs) Hutton, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Van der Las of San Anselmo, were guests at her farewell dinner Wednesday night at Sukiyaki House Yamato in San Francisco. Dick has known Babs since she was 20 years old. She and her entourage left today for New York. They'll sail on the France next week and will spend some time at Babs' apartment in Paris, then go to her house on the French Riviera. She also has a house in Cuernavaca, Mexico, and was there before she came to San Francisco for her annual visit. She also has a home in India.

There were 14 at Babs' farewell dinner. She wore a gorgeous black silk gown with a long wide flowing panel at the back. Mrs. Van der Las's gown was a charcoal and gold Italian net and had a fox fur stole.

JANET KING, who will be graduated from Dominican College in May, and her fiance, Garrett Scales, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percival Scales of Ross, have been honored at several parties. They had to be set before his departure for the East Coast. He left yesterday for Officers Candidate School at Newport, R.I.

Wedding plans have been completed. Vows will be taken at a nuptial mass at St. Monica's Church in San Francisco with the reception following at the Olympic Club at Lakeside.

Three of Janet's classmates in residence at Penneforte at Dominican will be in the wedding party. Patricia Petri of San Francisco will be maid of honor and Carol Ingmanson of Menlo Park and Andrea Rosaia of Eureka will be bridesmaids. Other bridesmaids will be Janet's cousins, Susan Cronin and Karen Scheibring, both of San Francisco. Seven year old Cindy Scales, the bridegroom's only sister, will be flower girl. Gary's young brother, Thomas Plant, will be ring bearer. Terry Stent of Hillsborough, a jet pilot, will serve as best man if he can get leave. Guests will be escorted by Janet's brother, Thomas King and Gary's brothers, Nicholas, Jeffrey and Christopher Scales, Anton Holter and William Holter all of Ross.

The party series for the popular young couple began with a reception given by Gary's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percival Scales of Ross. A cocktail party and dinner were hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Hartford Rapp Jr. of San Francisco for Janet and her fiance.

Carol Ingmanson and Andrea Rosaia are giving a luncheon for Janet May 5 at Carol's home in Menlo Park. More parties are being planned for the summer months.

Janet is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ignatius King of San Francisco. Her fiance is a graduate of Berllarmine and University of San Francisco.

CELEBRATING their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary in Honolulu will be Mr. and Mrs. Sanfor (Bud) Paganucci of Ross. They flew to the islands Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Petri of San Francisco who will give the anniversary party Tuesday night in the Lihikai suite at the Surfrider. With the Paganuccis are their children, Paula and David, and the Petris' daughter, Patricia, flew to Honolulu today for her Easter vacation from Dominican.

The Petris have been living in a fifth floor apartment at 1080 Chestnut while their penthouse home in the building is being completed.

CAROL ALMA PRESLEY, three months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ray Presley of San Rafael was baptized Sunday at the chapel of Mission San Rafael Arcangel with Rev. John C. Petroni officiating. Mrs. Eugenia DeMartini, Carol's maternal grandmother, was proxy godmother for Mrs. Alma Presley of Sterling Colo., Carol's paternal grandmother who was not able to attend. Philip J. DeMartini maternal grandfather, served as godfather. Also present at the ceremony were Carol's parents and her two brothers and sister, Donald Jr., 6, Eugene, 5, and Donna 3.

A family dinner party at the Los Ranchitos home of maternal grandparents, followed the religious rites. Also present was Carol's uncle, John DeMartini. The late John E. Presley of Cotati, Calif., is the baby's paternal grandfather.

Flying Fever Hit Two Clans

TAIPEI, Taiwan (UPI) — Two families have supplied a lion's share of stewardesses to CAT—Civil Air Transport here.

Together, the Yue and Wei families since 1952 have provided the airlines with what is believed to be the biggest sister act in the flying industry—six stewardesses and one office worker.

The Yue family supplied four of the seven airline workers in the sister act.

Three of the Yue sisters retired when they married. Julia Yue, who joined up in 1958, keeps the family tradition going by serving as a stewardess.

Two of the Wei sisters also left the airline when they married. The third, Ginger, still is airborne, working as a stewardess.

At the age of 21, she thinks it is too early to talk about marriage.

Hobby Horse Still Rides The Range In World Of Toys

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—It comes as no surprise that some of the latest toys are out of this world. The kids are in tune with the space age.

But is also is worth noting that the oldies continue their hold on a child's hours of play.

There are, to mention just three, the Teddy Bear, the Raggedy Ann doll, and the hobby horse—all classics of the children's world.

The old and the new merge at the toy industry's annual 59th fair this week, for buyers in New York to plan their store stocks for Christmas. Some 1,200 toy makers presented 125,000 types of toys.

The hobby horse turned up this year as a talking horse. He was wound up to whinny and also to demand, "How about some hay?"

Horses as toys can be traced at least to 500 B.C., said Mrs. Henry Erath, in charge of the antiques toy division of New York's largest toy store. One miniature horse from ancient Egypt is on display at the British Museum, she said.

In the 12th century, the hobby horse — the type with its head on a stick—showed in Europe. Children then used it to play a game called "Riding the quintain", a version of knights in armor carrying spears and charging each other, she said.

Mrs. Erath's research showed that about 1650, some 1500 boys arrived in Nuremberg, Germany, all on hobby horses —their quaint way of giving thanks for the end of the Thirty Years War.

"Numerous artists have pictured the Christ child with a stick-type hobby horse," she said.

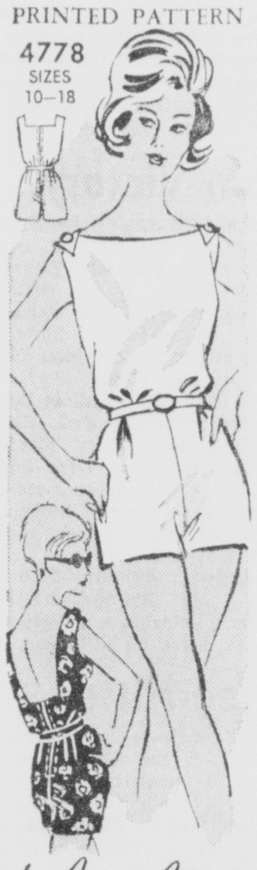

By the 18th and 19th centuries, the horse was on rockers, and some of the toys were masterworks of carving and painting. The whole commercial industry for them began, as it did for many other toys, in Germany, Austria, and Sweden, when peasants, after harvest turned to carving.

Mrs. Erath said that today the hand-carved hobby horse is rare. Most horses are wooden-base with life-like hide covering and most are on wheels or rockers. Today's horse costs from $25 to $150, depending on size and fanciness of gear.

"I think the fascination for children lies in the toy's movement," said Mrs. Erath. "Or, maybe there's more to it . . . why, for instance, do so many of us adults love Westerns?"

"Whatever the fascination," she said, "the hobby horse ranks with the teddy bear and Raggedy Ann as an all-time favorite."

Couples Volunteer For Study

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A unique martial adjustment study of 200 newlywed couples in the capital has passed the honeymoon stage—the federal project now needs a nursery school.

The project, begun in July, 1959, is called the Study on Biosocial Growth and Development. It is being sponsored by the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH).

Studies of the couples' initial adjustment "may provide counselors with their first opportunity to make predictions on whether or not marriage partners will or will not make good parents," a spokesman for the institue said.

No other study ever has focused on what influences the emerging family patterns have on the personality and mental health of the infants from birth to the time they are ready to enter school, NIMH said.

The institute plans now to study the parents' first-born in a nursery school setting. They hope to see how the early adjustment of the parents influences the behavior development of children.

Each husband and wife together and separately, discusses everyday life with a team of investigators. Such conferences are to be continued in special rooms at the nursery, the NIMH said.

Target date for completion of the special school is June, 1963. By then the first of the children will have passed their third birthdays.

Parents will bring their children to the nursery and take them home at the end of the day, just as they would for any other school. Television cameras will monitor the youngsters' behavior in class or at play.

Sponsors of the program stressed that the participating couples are not mental patients and are not under treatment. They are average citizens, typical of a community, who volunteered for the study.

Pierce Nervous As Rookie In N.L. Debut But Comes Through With Win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Billy Pierce, a 35-year-old ex-American Leaguer labeled as a once-a-week spot pitcher, says he can throw every fifth day for the San Francisco Giants.

And Giants' Coach Larry Jansen, impressed with Pierce's two-hit victory over Cincinnati last night, agrees.

Pierce needed eighth inning relief help in the 7-2 win, but apparently cinched a starting turn with the league leading unbeaten Giants.

Rookie Gaylord Perry was to make his big league debut today as the Giants sought win number five against the Reds' Bob Purkey.

Manager Alvin Dark was thrown out of last night's game after Pierce's first pitch when Umpire Al Barlick ruled that Pierce's pivot foot was off the rubber. Dark charged to the mound and argued for six minutes.

Dark said he will start left hander Billy O'Dell against the Dodgers Monday night and follow with southpaw Mike McCormick on Tuesday. But he said McCormick still might relieve over the weekend.

LIKE A ROOKIE

Pierce, acquired this winter after 13 years with the Chicago White Sox, said he, "still felt like a rookie, coming into a new league."

Throwing mostly fast balls with a few curves and sliders, he limited the floundering Reds to a home run by Wally Post and a single by Vada Pinson and retired the first 13 men he faced.

But he lost his control in the eighth, hitting pinch-hitter Leo Cardenas and walking Cookie Rojas. When Pinson singled, Jansen figured Pierce was through.

"I just thought he got tired," said Larry. "He lost a bit of his fast ball and it was getting chilly."

Left hander Billy said, "I just lost a bit of co-ordination. Maybe I eased up with a lead."

MILLER RELIEVES

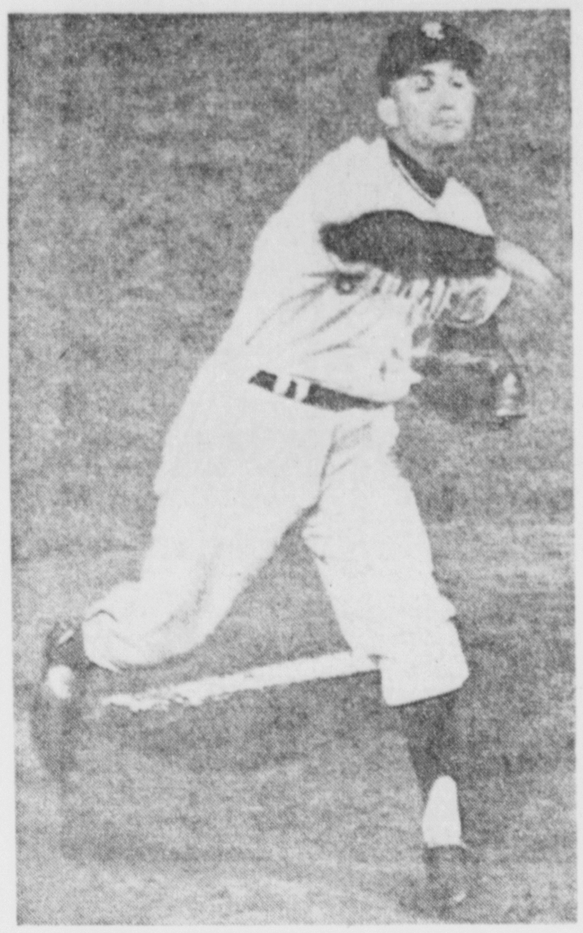

The Giants had tied the score 1-1 in the fifth, then added three runs in the sixth and two in the seventh. Stu Miller came to the rescue and set down Cincinnati with one more hit.

When the Giants got Pierce, they hoped he still had enough to throw once a week. But says Pierce: "I used to throw every five games and I still think I can."

"Yeah, he can probably throw every five, or at least six days," added Jansen.

Willie Mays put San Francisco ahead for good 2-1 with a home run in the sixth off loser Jim O'Toole. It was his third first-pitch homer of the year but he has no other hits.

Orlando Cepeda homered with one aboard in the seventh and the Giants added a final run in the eighth.

GOOD START — Lefty Billy Pierce made his first National League game a winning one last night as he beat the defending champion Cincinnati Reds 7-2. Pierce needed late-inning relief help from Stu Miller, but gave up only two hits in seven innings. (AP Wirephoto)

Hornets Steal Show With Thrilling Rally Over S.R.

By PAUL MILLER

The Novato High Hornets stole the show last night and it may be any team's spotlight time today and tonight as the final round of the 1962 Marin County Athletic League Easter baseball tournament is resolved at Albert Park.

Professional strategy by Hornet coach Bill Kline and clutch hitting by Joe Colfer and Mike Milano brought the Novato crew from a five-run deficit to a one-run victory in the last three innings of a 7-6 ball game with San Rafael that turned out to be the first round's thriller.

In other games the Marin Catholic Wildcats easily upset previously undefeated Sir Francis Drake, 8-3; Redwood dumped Terra Linda, 6-0 to give the Giants 21 innings without a run scored against them; the Tamalpais Indians pushed over the San Rafael Military Academy 7-5 at Marin Catholic's ball park.

Today and tonight's rounds will be played at Albert Park, the first game of which began at noon between Redwood and Novato, and was followed at 2 p.m. between Marin Catholic and Tam.

Consolations games will be played between Terra Linda and San Rafael at 4 p.m., and the Academy and Drake at 6 p.m.

The championship battle starts at 8 p.m. between the winners of the noon and 2 p.m. contests.

Colfer and batter Milano were the heroes for Novato in the 6 p.m. game at Albert Park. Colfer started a fifth inning rally for Novato when he smashed a single with the bases loaded to drive in Ron Rowell. Then Milano was credited with two RBIs as he hit into San Rafael errors to trim the Bulldog lead to 6-5 after Novato had been trailing by five runs for four innings.

In the bottom of the scoreless sixth with two men away, coach Bill Kline was told by the umpire that if the seventh inning didn't start in 45 seconds the game would be called and San Rafael would win. Kline instructed his batter to strike out, the Hornets dashed into the infield, Kline substituted pitcher John Rentz with shut-out hurler Larry Hale, who already has a one-hitter under his belt.

Hale did his pressure work well, retiring San Rafael in order on a fly ball and two strike outs. The fly was beautifully brought in by right fielder Royal Druba. (Another spectacular Novato catch was made by right fielder Joe Jones in the sixth to deny Bulldogs Hal Meller a double.)

San Rafael coach Jack Sims put starting pitcher Jack Sovereign back on the mound. He had been relieved to be saved for today when San Rafael was ahead by five runs in the fifth. Kline threw the tigers of his batting order against Sovereign, and Colfer again started the fireworks in the bottom of that seventh inning with his second double off big Jack to score teammate Don Scribner and tie the game, 6-6. Colfer then stole third; Milano came through with a clutch single over second base to bring in Colfer and put Novato in the winners bracket.

Wildcats Upset Drake, 8-3

Marin Catholic Wildcats wasted no time in tieing into the previously undefeated Drake Pirates as Wildcat pitcher Dave Beswick kept the defensive frames in order, allowing Drake only two hits. Coach Harry Moore's scrappers captured runs in all but the final inning. Two runs each were obtained by the Wildcats in the first and fourth frames. Drake jumped ahead of Marin by a run in the bottom half of the opening inning, but the three runs tallied by coach Verle Sorgen's charges were all Beswick would allow. Drake pitcher Gary Goodall, and his fifth-inning relief Larry Peet, gave up a total of nine hits to Marin.

Catholic Frank Burch, a pitcher who played the outfield last night, opened up the battle lines for Marin with a two-run homer in that first inning, and John (Tinker) Ward did as well with an inside-the-park three run homer in the bottom of the same frame to account for all Drake's runs. Drake's other hit was a single by third baseman Ron Sater.

Burch continued to be the Catholics' big bat as he pounded out two more singles, four RBIs, with a perfect night at the plate (3-3). First baseman Hank Ryan of Marin had two hits for four times at bat and outfielder John Odetto smashed out a double and a triple and reserve catcher John Winters, working for injured catcher Joe Hebel, belted a double.

Walker Paces Tam Victory

The first inning excepted, coach Ray Bell's Tam Indians didn't have much trouble putting down the San Rafael Military Academy. When the top half of the frame was over Cadet catcher Bruce Bostick had smashed the first homer of the tournament to score three runs. The Cadets picked up a fourth run in that inning on Tam's only error.

It was a big day for Bostick who, in addition to his three-run homer, got two hits for three times at bat.

For the Indians, pitcher John Walker was the day's slugger. Walker, who was relieved from his mound duties in the fifth inning by Fred Mack, got two hits for two times at the plate and gathered three RBIs. Walker struck out eight Cadets and walked three before Mack hurled. Mack struck out one man and gave up no walks.

For Tam first baseman Bob Osborne, shortstop Jack Martin, outfielder Larry Pierce and catcher Steve Long had an RBI each. Chuck Locati, second base for the Indians, got three hits for four times at bat.

Cooney Wins Three-Hitter

Coach Al Endriss' Redwood Giants dominated things in the Albert Park opener as they scored a run in the first inning, followed it with three more in the next and grabbed two more in the fifth frame on a total of seven hits and four errors.

Mike Cooney of Redwood hurled a three hitter and Doug Matlock of Terra Linda went the whole game. He gave up a double to Redwood first baseman Mark Pearce and to tiger hitter for the Giants, Roy Giusti. It was the Redwood catcher's fourth double against Marin teams this season. Pearce drove in three of Redwood's runs. Joe Weiss was also a hitter.

The win was Cooney's second shutout of the week in 14 innings of work. He also held Terra Linda's big hitter, Jerry Daniele, hitless.

2 Tie For Lead At Greensboro

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Muscular Mike Souchak and chunky little Billy Maxwell, two touring golf professionals who haven't won since last year, occupy the same position in the Greater Greensboro Open today that they held last spring.

They share the lead with 137 totals, one less than they needed to set the 36-hole pace last year when Souchak went on to win the tournament and Maxwell finished third, behind Sam Snead.

That victory here was Mike's last, although he won almost $20,000 in official earnings and competed against the British in the Ryder Cup.

Maxwell last won the hard way — in a seven-hole, sudden death playoff with Ted Kroll last August at Hartford, Conn.

Souchak used only 26 strokes on the greens in compiling his 69 yesterday. Maxwell took 27 putts in fashioning a 67, best round of the day.

THIRD PLACE

Sharing third place, two shots back at 139, were bespectacled Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn.; Bill Casper, the round man from Apple Valley, Calif., and Jerry Steelsmith of Glendale, Calif., who lost a sudden death playoff to Dave Marr at Wilmington, N. C. two weeks ago.

Back of the top five came first day leader Dow Finsterwald, who fell from an opening 65 to 75 and 140 to deadlock with Jim Ferrier, Bruce Crampton, Dave Marr and Rex Baxter.

Sam Snead, seven times winner here, was in good position at the halfway mark with 142, five strokes behind the leaders.

Masters champion Arnold Palmer, who has made only four birdies in two rounds, double bogeyed two par-3 holes on his last nine and shot 76 for 147, 10 shots off the top. He professed to being tired, physically and mentally.

Yank-Killer Larry Does It Again; Crowd Blasts Maris

Time was when the New York Yankees shuddered every time Frank Lary picked up his glove and walked out to the mound. It must be noted, however, that this was about the only way the Detroit pitcher intimidated them.

But the big, bad Bombers get nervous even when he strolls over to the watercooler. It's too close to the bat rack.

Lary, who makes a habit of this sort of thing, beat the Yanks 5-3 yesterday in Detroit's home opener. Departing from his usual custom, however, the Yankee killer did most of his damage with his bat instead of his arm.

Lary tripled in the tying run in a wild seventh inning as the Tigers charged from behind 3-0 deficit. He pulled up lame at third and was lifted for a pinch runner, who eventually scored the winning run.

Washington, which hasn't lost yet, gained the top spot in the American League with a brief, five-inning 5-2 victory over the Indians at Cleveland while Chicago's White Sox bombed the A's 12-5 in a night game at Kansas City. Baltimore's home opener against Boston was rained out, and a blanket of snow forced Minnesota's Twins to postpone their home opener against Los Angeles.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

In the National League, San Francisco whipped Cincinnati 7-2. Los Angeles kept Milwaukee winless 6-3, Philadelphia handed Houston its first loss 3-2, Pittsburgh ruined the New York Mets home opener 4-3, and St. Louis outlasted Chicago 8-5 in 15 innings.

The seventh at Detroit started with a fan throwing a pop bottle at the Yanks' Roger Maris.

Maris trotted into the New York dugout after the bottle grazed his arm. Spectators then scattered broken glass over his position. The game was held up for about five minutes while Maris talked with Ralph Houk in the Yanks' dugout. Eventually he was escorted back to right field by umpires.

Lary was credited with the victory, running his career record to 28-10 over the Yankees.

DRYSDALE WINS

Don Drysdale went the distance for the Dodgers striking out 11 and giving up eight hits, including a two-run homer by Roy McMillan in the ninth. Drysdale also drove in the go-ahead run with a double in the fifth as the Dodgers belted Milwaukee's Lew Burdette for five runs—three on Tommy Davis' homer.

The Phils got the job done as Tony Gonzales supplied the power with a tie-breaker homer off Colts' starter Dick Farrell in the sixth and a triple in the eighth that drove in the deciding tally. Rookie Jack Hamilton picked up the win with a seven-hitter, although he wild pitched a run home in the fourth and balked one across in the ninth.

The Pirates scored the deciding run in the eighth when Don Hoak walked, took second on a wild pitch, moved up on an infield out and came across on another wild one by Mets' reliever Ray Deviault. Tom Sturdivant won it with relief help from ElRoy Face over the last two innings. Sherman "Roadblock" Jones took the loss.

Don Landrum's tie-breaking single and Bill White's two-run double gave the Cards three in the 15th to nail the 4-hour, 40-minute marathon with the Cubs. Stan Musial scored his 1,860th run during the game, eclipsing the N.L. record held by Mel Ott. Lindy McDaniel, with seven innings of three-hit relief, was the winner. Bob Anderson lost it.

Molina, Lane A 'Tossup' In San Jose TV Bout

SAN JOSE (AP)—Undefeated lightweight Luis Molina battles to impress a national television audience and boost a title bid tonight when he fights veteran left-hander Kenny Lane.

Observers rate the 10-round bout a toss-up, with Molina the stiffer puncher and Lane the better boxer.

"Left-handers aren't too much different," observed Molina, 23, an ex-Marine who has knocked out 15 foes in winning his 19 pro outings since 1959. He hasn't fought a pro lefty but met a couple during his lengthy amateur career.

"If I beat Lane, I'll go to Las Vegas and challenge the winner of the title fight there," he said.

Molina has fought nearly all of his bouts here. But last Feb. 24, he went on only one day's notice to Las Vegas to outpoint Houston's Manuel Gonzales in a substitute bout when champion Joe Brown became ill and his title fight with Carlos Ortiz was postponed.

On Tuesday of that week, Molina stopped veteran Len Matthews in the first round and took off on a fishing trip.

Molina is rated the No. 4 junior welterweight challenger by the NBA and Lane 10th among lightweights by Ring Magazine.

Viewers may not notice it but Molina says he'll be talking to himself most of the match, which starts at 7 p.m. on ABC.

"I always do," he said. "I tell myself, 'Hit him with a right hand' or 'Hook.'"

The 30-year-old Lane from Muskegon, Mich., has made one unsuccessful title bid and wants another crack at the crown.

But if he beats Molina, he has agreed to fight him again.

Should Molina win, promoter Abe Aquistapace has offered the winner of the Brown-Ortiz fight a $50,000 guarantee to fight the San Jose slugger.

In a career dating back to 1953, Lane has won 69, lost 11 and fought two draws.

Attorney Rice, Wife Granted Divorces

San Rafael attorney Berwyn A. Rice, 52, and his wife Beryl, 56, who have been separated for nearly four years, officially parted company yesterday with a divorce in Marin Superior Court.

Judge Thomas F. Keating granted interlocutory divorce decrees to both Rice and his wife.

Under an agreement approved by the judge, Rice retains his legal practice and equipment, and she keeps her dry cleaning business in Honolulu known as "One Hour Martinizing." She retains her property at 310 Forbes Avenue, San Rafael, and gets $17,000 as her share of community property. He gets $4,000.

Rice must pay $300 per month for the support of their two children, Kent, 15, and Candice, 13. He will keep his $25,000 life insurance policy.

They were married in Santa Rosa in 1943, and separated in 1958. Rice filed for divorce in August of 1960, charging her with mental cruelty.

She cross-filed for divorce last November, charging extreme cruelty. Her complaint also accused the attorney of adultery with a Dixie D. Avilla. She said he makes $30,000 per year, but he contends he makes only $12,000 per year.

Seymour of 710 Hawthorne Drive, Tiburon, and Mrs. E. C. Counter of Oakland offered to conduct the sale.

Miss Reynolds, whose home is at 51 Shell Road, Alto, suffered first and second degree burns on her right arm, right leg and chest when her clothes caught fire while she was burning trash in an incinerator Feb. 27.

The gift shop was bought by Paul Hirsch of San Francisco.

Employees Will Meet Monthly

Marin County Employees Assn. will meet each month hereafter, instead of every other month, members decided Thursday night.

A tentative calendar of events set up last night calls for a barbecue-picnic in September, appointment of a nominating committee for new officers in October, election in November, and installation of new officers in December.

President William C. Bradley said this schedule would permit new officers to take over in January instead of in March. Meetings will be held on the second Thursday of each month.

Next month's meeting is set for May 9, a Wednesday, because Thursday conflicts with other engagements for some employees. At the meeting, Leo Vaughan of the auditor's office will discuss the state retirement system for safety employees. Members will also continue discussion of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.'s major medical plan.

President Bradley appointed Ruth Seibert and Vivian O'Brien of the Public Works Department to the entertainment committee.

France Gets New Premier; Debre Out

PARIS (AP) — Georges Pompidou, 50, banker and confidant of President Charles de Gaulle, was appointed premier of France today. Earlier in the day, Premier Michel Debre and other ministers in his cabinet had resigned.

The change was not a reversion to the periodic crisis of the Fourth Republic, which was swept away by de Gaulle. Rather, it seemed to be an outward sign of a shift in political emphasis that was bound to folwar in Algeria.

BOY DIES

and diving for it. The two other boys watched. Suddenly Billy cried to Mrs. Field, "Mother, Gary is swimming on the bottom of the pool." Then Rickey shouted, "There's a picture of a boy on the bottom."

Horrifield, Mrs. Field ran to the pool, saw Gary on the bottom, face down, and jumped in with her clothes on to bring him out. She got a grip on an arm but he slipped away and she yelled to her daughter. The daughter dived in, and the two brought the unconscious boy to the side of the pool and used respiration methods Mrs. Field had learned from Red Cross first aid training.

"He was very much alive then," said Mrs. Field. "Susie was pumping and I fixed his head and arms. Much water came out of him. He had a pulse and his color was good. He groaned several times."

As the daughter continued the efforts, Mrs. Field phoned the fire department. Bradley said firemen got the call at 2:24 p.m. and arrived at 2:28 p.m.

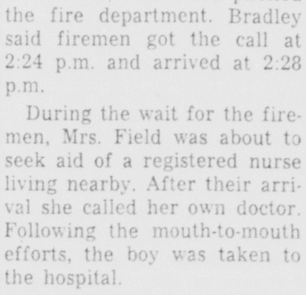

During the wait for the firemen, Mrs. Field was about to seek aid of a registered nurse living nearby. After their arrival she called her own doctor. Following the mouth-to-mouth efforts, the boy was taken to the hospital.

The boy's mother joined Mrs. Field at the hospital and Mrs. Field said, "she didn't condemn me in any way for what happened." Mrs. Field added she is a member of the Lynwood Property Owners Assn. and keeps her pool padlocked when not in use and has urged others to observe like precautions.

Mrs. Field for some time had been caring for Gary from the time school let out until one of his parents returned home in the late afternoon. His mother had brought his swimming suit the other day and given permission for him to go swimming, Mrs. Field said.

The Barnetts have two other boys, Allen, 12, and Victor, 5. Barnett works as a tire retreader in Mill Valley and his wife is a waitress for Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club, said Mrs. Field.

Funeral services were scheduled for 2 p.m. Monday at Redwood Chapel, Novato.

Her husband, William H. Patching, is a bakery salesman. She was a native of Minnesota. She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael; San Rafael Chapter 215, Order of the Eastern Star; and past district president of Parent-Teachers' Assn.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Everyone Agrees Marin County Has The Most—

We in Marin County have long known that we generally enjoy a good share of this world's goods—even after taxes. But four out-of-Marin agencies, strictly impartial in research and analysis, cite even more impressive facts on our economic status.

The State Department of Finance has repeatedly declared that Marin's family tax-reported income averages $9,781 yearly—are the highest of any county in California.

Newest compilation by the U. S. Bureau of the Census shows media income in Marin County is $8,110 — still the state's highest. This census report, soon to be circulated, also states that 33.4 per cent of Marin's salaried population earn $10,000 or more each year.

San Rafael families have the highest median income of residents of the average American city, according to a survey by William Spangle and Associates. Based on 1959 figures, San Rafael's average family income was $7.715 yearly. Nationwide the average national family income in cities was $5,619.

Incomes of $10,000 or more are enjoyed by 31.5 per cent of Marin families, with only 10 per cent having annual incomes below $3,000. And 202 family incomes here exceed $25,000 yearly.

Additional evidence of Marin's stability as a residential area is the recent survey of the State Department of Public Relations. Statewide, 83 per cent of occupied housing units have telephones. In Marin, 92 per cent of occupied units have telephones.

In television ownership, statewide average is 89 per cent of the homes. Marin just equals this record.

Thus, while Marin meets the state average for TV, which can be moved or sold with rapidity, our county outnumbers its television sets with telephones, a more permanent installation. So we are a neighborly, as well as an economically comfortable populace.

There is continuing growth in Marin's use of these good things of life. But Marin isn't interested in growth for growth's sake. Residents want pleasant, progressive communities, replete with recreational and educational advantages. Growth must be orderly; with streets, highways and schools geared to needs with a minimum of maladjustments.

Marinites now enjoy a pleasant way of life. Marin now must actively seek its continuance through prompt and proper planning to meet the challenge of inevitable growth in population.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

There Are Many Things To Learn When Candidates List Comes Out

By CHAPIN A. DAY

'CHIP' DAY

The official list of candidates is always an interesting document. Even someone who is supposed to be following the political picture closely, finds scads of candidates he never heard of before. Thus it was again last week with the release of the semi-official list by Secretary of State Frank Jordan.

You read in the I-J Monday that there are eight candidates for governor, four Democrats, three Republicans and a Prohibitionist. But did you know that:

There are three Democrats and two Republicans running for lieutenant governor? Four Democrats and three Republicans for Secretary of State? Three Democrats and four Republicans for U. S. Senator?

THE LIST ALSO brings into clear light the fact that we gave you some bum information about one of the candidates for state superintendent of schools. We had nine candidates filed, which is the right number. But we reported that Holland Roberts was going to run again. He isn't. Instead, a West Covina engineer by the name of C. O'Donnell Lee filed with the other eight.

We'd feel even worse about giving you the wrong dope if we hadn't received a news release from California Teachers Assn. dated April 12 which indicated only eight candidates had filed.

AND HERE ARE some other little tidbits from the list:

Only two candidates for major offices failed to give their designation of office or occupation. There were Republican gubernatorial candidates Richard M. Nixon and Joseph C. Shell.

The new 48th Assembly District in Los Angeles has 17 candidates, 14 Democrats and three Republicans. A number of Assembly districts had nine, 10 or 11 candidates. The 23rd District in San Francisco, for example, has eight Democrats and only one Republican, while the 22nd District in the Los Gatos area has one Democrat and eight Republicans.

One new Congressional District, the 31st in the Iglewood area, has nine Democrats and four Republicans.

But Marin's First Congressional District and Seventh Assembly District have just one Democrat and one Republican each: Rep. Clem Miller and Supervisor Don Clausen for Congress, and Robert Carrow and incumbent William T. Bagley for Assembly.

THE LIST ALSO makes it official that there will be at least 29 new assemblymen next year out of the 80 in the lower house. That many incumbents will not be seeking re-election.

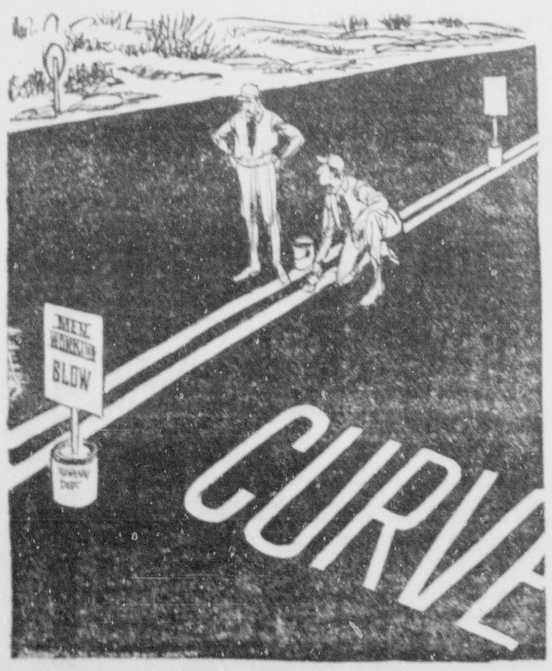

If as few as a dozen incumbents lose their seats, the freshmen will outnumber the "old timers."

FROM THE NOTEBOOK: Mrs. Lee Sherry of San Anselmo is a delegate to the 10th annual Republican Women's Conference in Washington this weekend. She is vice chairman of the Marin Republican County General Committee.

Attorney Hadden W. Roth of San Rafael is the county chairman for the re-election of Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk. He's named Albert Harris, president of the San Rafael Democratic Club, as Mosk treasurer; John Rockwell of San Rafael as chairman of the lawyer's committee, and Mrs. Peggy Culler of Mill Valley, chairman of the women's division.

Mosk is due to attend a reception the afternoon of May 20 at Roger Kent's Kent Woodlands home. He's also expected to make a speech here earlier that month.

Need Free Speech To Beat Commies

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Some years back, the Communist Party was listed in the voting booths and radicals made speeches on soapboxes and ranted against our form of government. At that time, not too much serious attention was given them by the majority of Americans, nor were they denied their right to disagree.

Now that they are becoming a threat to our form of government, anti-communist groups are springing up, all worried that they did not detect the cancer in its early stages.

By what logic do we allow the Communists to exist if their numbers are small, and try to outlaw them if their numbers increase?

To halt the growth of this Russian form of government in our country the anti-communists borrow a piece of Russian law: suppress free speech — overlooking the inevitable consequence that eventually all forms of government criticism would be prohibited.

Without free speech, if our government began to deteriorate we could not stop it because no one would be allowed to talk about it.

The proponents of the Francis Amendment, in effect, are saying, "Communism is spreading because we allowed freedom of speech to flourish."

Communism is spreading, not because we allowed freedom of speech to flourish but because we allowed ignorance to flourish. Hundreds of thousands of Americans (if not millions) "know" Communism is bad—but couldn't explain why.

An effort is now being made to teach Communism in the schools, which should have been done years ago. Time is short, however, and how do we reach that multitude of adult know-nots who are allowed to use America's strongest weapon—the voting lever? In their hands the fate of America rests today.

If we can show them how exciting these issues are, how very much they affect their lives, and how freedoms are not lost overnight but are insidiously chipped away, America won't be battling a last-ditch stand to remain the last bastion of liberty—she will be the forerunner of a new wave of freedom-awareness that will wash upon lands everywhere.

Time To Stop Hiding Our Heads

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Bouquets to the 25 Marin clergymen who came forward to ask for action against racial discrimination in housing. It is gratifying to know that they are concerned about this issue on moral grounds.

The committee that studied this problem for more than a year found many actual cases of racial discrimination in housing in our county. They presented their findings to the board of supervisors, and yet this board has continually tried to ignore the problem and put it off onto someone else.

When the supervisors voted down a proposed ordinance on this issue on Nov. 15, 1960 by a 3-2 vote, William Fusselman promised that he would put an ad in the Independent-Journal explaining why he voted against the ordinance. We are still waiting for his explanation.

It is high time that we all stop hiding our heads on this important moral issue.

Blind Obedience; Eichmann Cited

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

The eminent psychiatrist, Eric Fromm, in his lecture April 10 at the College of Marin, stated that disobedience marked the beginning of man's history, but obedience may well be the means of ending it.

As an example of mindless obedience, Fromm mentioned Adolph Eichmann, who zealously operated the Nazi crematorius. At his trial, Eichman's plea that he merely married out superior orders was not accepted. He was charged with the crime of obedience to a policy that involved the deaths of millions of people.

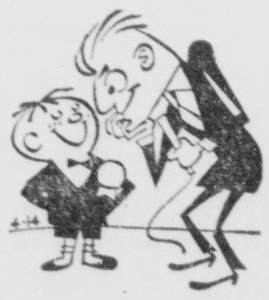

Our present "defense" policy is based on possible cremation of millions of thermonuclear weapons. Norman Cousins, editor of Saturday Review, has said: "Our inability to feel direct, uncomplicated horror over the imminence of nuclear war is perhaps just as frightening as nuclear war itself."

Obedience, meaning lack of protest, to an arms race and policy that is taking us closer to war, implies the same kind of mentality that Eichmann, and other war criminals, were sentenced to death for. We have the chance to show our moral concern for human life and welfare. There would be no war trials held after a thermonuclear war. The individual conscience must be the judge, before it is too late.

TRY AND STOP ME

One of the small boys who popped up on an Art Linkletter television show recently wore a bright medal conspicuously on the lapel of his jacket. He explained that he had earned the medal by never missing one session of his Sunday school for three solid years.

"That's a wonderful record," approved Linkletter, "and I'll bet you know the Bible now better than any other 7-year-old in Los Angeles. Tell me, what's your favorite Bible story?"

Unhesitatingly the small boy replied, "Humpty Dumpty."

"A kid is the last container of a genuine sense of humor," maintains Dr. Seuss, author of the all-conquering "The Cat in the Hat." He continues, "This sense of humor disappears as the kid gets older, and learns to laugh only according to the way the boss, society, politics, or race want him to. Then he becomes an adult. And an adult is an obsolete child."

This Easter Bunny Left Something Besides Eggs And Got New Name

Here's the best Easter Bunny story we've heard in years, and it's all quite authentic.

Jean Adam of San Anselmo, who directs a nursery school, decided to get a real live wabbit to show her kiddies just what an Easter Bunny looks like in real life.

She went to Boyd Museum in San Rafael to borrow one for the day. "We've got just the thing for you," they told her. They gave her Big Jim, the biggest and most beautiful rabbit they had on display. But before the day was over, Big Jim proceeded to deliver eight little bunnies.

Red-faced museum officials quickly renamed the rabbit. Big Jim is now Slim Jane.

IS IT TRUE that Johnny Mathis' brother works at the Golden Gate Bridge toll gates?

There's a fella that looks just like the famous singer.

WHEN A Los Angeles brunette was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail this week for smuggling dope into San Quentin, they promptly packed her off to San Bruno Jail in San Francisco.

The official reason was that Marin jail is no place for a woman inmate.

But the real reason could have been this:

A little blonde girl, who testified against the Los Angeles brunette, is already serving time in the Marin County Jail. And if they had put the two in the same cell, it could have been dynamite.

WAYNE WOMACK of Novato is listed as "variety store operator" on the June ballot for supervisor. He wanted to change it to "mayor, City of Novato."

County Clerk George Gnoss nixed this because the atty-gen. has ruled that the listing must show occupation as of date of primary. And Womack will no longer be mayor in June, as he did not seek re-election to the council.

But Womack's Variety Store had been closed ever since a fire on Jan. 10. So the question was, would he be a variety store owner on June 5?

But the whole thing is resolved now. The variety store reopened this week—the day after a successor to Womack was elected to the Novato City Council.

JFK Attitude Toward Business Now Getting Into Action Stage

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy sees himself in no way hostile to business, no enemy of our competitive, profit-enterprise economy.

Today the Kennedy administration, after little over a year in office, has a considerable record to prove its credentials. These credentials were suspect at first when many feared that the New Frontier was going to recreate the climate of the New Deal in which for business to make a profit seemed somehow at least anti-social.

IN HIS FIRST formal public speech after entering the White House Kennedy took the opposite view. He stated to the National Industrial Conference Board that the interests of government and industry were closely "intertwined." He said that far from being natural enemies, government and business are "necessary allies." He added: "We are opposed to corruption and monopoly—but we are not opposed to business."

In the present session of Congress the president has implemented this philosophy in three significant directions:

1. By wisely and promptly initiating its liberalized trade program to put American business in a better position to compete in the expanding and prosperous European Common Market.

2. By proposing a more equitable adjustment in the tax laws, enabling industry more rapidly to write off depreciating equipment and modernize plants.

3. By asking Congress to take the heavy-disordered hand of federal regulation off much of the nation's transportation.

THESE ARE NOT just words. They are concrete proposals which can be carried out as soon as Congress approves.

Each is designed as a boon to industry on the ground that each will contribute to the vitality and growth of the whole economy.

The trade program, which Congress is viewing with increasing approval, is a means of putting American producers on terms of competitive equality with producers of Western Europe so we can sell to European consumers and they can sell to American consumers to our mutual advantage. On this point it is reassuring — although it should not be surprising—to find that those American industries which have the stiffest competition from imports have been achieving the highest rate of economic growth in the whole U. S. economy.

IN HIS transportation message, Kennedy aligns himself behind massive federal deregulation. In 1956 Republican Secretary of Commerce Weeks and, later, President Eisenhower, began to stress need of untangling the railroads from a federal regulation which was heaping inequity and inefficiency upon our whole inter-locking system of common carriers. Now Democratic Secretary of Commerce Hodges and Kennedy are taking the brave initiative to do something about it.

10 YEARS AGO

A parked car on the railroad track on Tamalpais Avenue in San Rafael caused a Northwestern Pacific train to detour. The engineer backed up and switched to another track. Police cited the car owner.

Dr. Wilson P. Goddard of Mill Valley, member of the board of Marin General Hospital, was appointed chief of staff at the new medical center.

A survey was started to determine whether Marin County should again be put under rent ceilings due to the Korea hostilities.

Woman's View As Central Figure In Integration Fight

Catholic Schools Order Creates A Controversy

By HARRY FERGUSON

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — In your hotel room is a tourist guide book which says: "New Orleans, traditionally the city that care forgot, is a lady of many moods."

Care has not forgotten New Orleans, but has come to town for a long visit and brought along two of her sisters whose names are controversy and anxiety.

Legal actions against racial integration of the public schools are nothing new here. Lawyers for the state and city have been fighting against integration ever since the Supreme Court decision of 1954. But on March 28 there was a new development that had nothing to do with the public schools.

Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel of the diocese of New Orleans (ten counties and part of another one) ordered that all Catholic schools in the Diocese should be fully integrated in September. His order did not include the words "Negro" or "integration." It simply abolished the system of separate parochial schools for whites and Negroes and provided that any Catholic child could attend any school he chose.

There are 527,490 Catholics in the diocese, a little less than half of the entire population. All of them knew immediately they were in a dilemma.

Most Catholics kept quiet. Among the Catholics who didn't were:

Mrs. Delphine P. Roberts who picketed Notre Dame Seminary carrying the sign: "Integration, the tool of satan, is designed to destroy not only the white race and our country but christianity and all civilization."

Rodney Buras, member of the state legislature, who endorsed a financial boycott against the Catholic Church.

Leander Perez of the New Orleans White Citizen's Council who was quoted: "Cut off their water. Quit giving them money to feed their fat bellies. If that is an undignified way to talk about bishops, let me remind you that this is not a dignified fight."

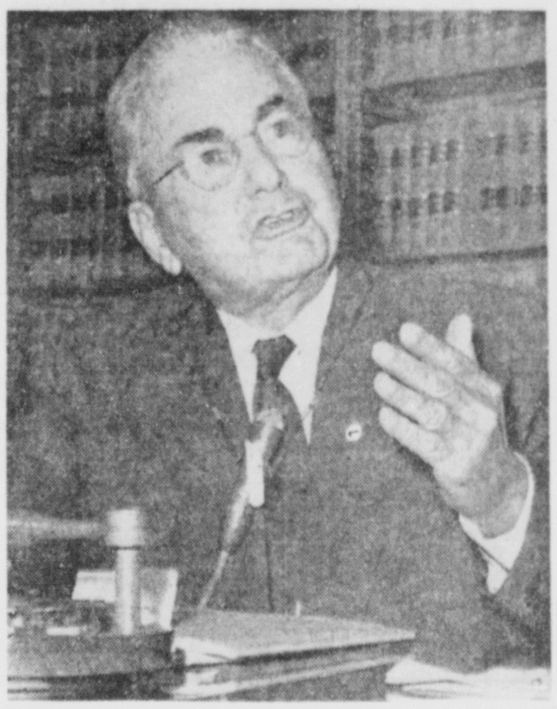

And finally, Mrs. B. J. Gaillot, president of an organization known as Save Our Nation, Inc. She is the center of the storm. Mrs. Gaillot is a slender, intense brunette, 42 years old and a seventh-generation Catholic. She has read the Catholic (douay) bible through her adult life, memorized much of it and annotated the passages which she believes refer to racial integration.

Her conclusion is that, regardless of the teachings of her church, God ordained that racial integration was a sin and so revealed himself in holy writ.

"Where?" I asked as we sat in her living room with a Bible between us.

INTEGRATION FOES—Mrs. B. J. Gaillot (left) and Judge Leander Perez, vehemently oppose the integration order of the New Orleans Catholic Diocese.

Mrs. Gaillot faces ex-communication. Perez says there is no "logical or understandable reason" for desegregation of the schools. (AP Wirephotos)

She read from the book of Genesis: "And when Sara had seen the son of Agar the Egyptian playing with Isaac her son, she said to Abraham: Cast out this bondwoman and her son: For the son of a bondwoman shall not be heir with my son, Isaac. Abraham took this grievously for his son. And God said unto him: Let it not seem grievous to thee for the boy and for they bondwoman: In all that Sara hath said to thee hearken to her voice."

"Mrs. Gaillot, your interpretation seems to be that Agar the Egyptian and her son were members of the black race?"

"Yes," she replied. "All non-whites are members of the black race. Egyptians, Asiatics and all of them."

She cited a dozen more Biblical passages including one from the book of numbers ("and that the tribes be not mingled with one another but remain so.")

Mrs. Gaillot had not limited the exposition of her views to conversations in her living room. She published pamphlets, picketed the chancery of the diocese and made a speech on television. Mail poured in from all parts of the country until her dining room table was loaded.

During the two hours of our conversation 16 telegrams arrived. Fifteen of them applauded her. Sample: from Birmingham, Ala.—"You are absolutely right on your stand. I hope and pray you won't retreat or surrender."

The one adverse telegram was from Bartlesville, Okla.: "May I suggest you resign as president of Save Our Nation and let us pray for peace in America. I, too, am a Catholic and the father of eight children."

In the big bundle of mail that arrived on April 1 was a letter written on the stationery of the archdiocese of New Orleans and signed "Joseph Francis Rummel, archbishop of New Orleans." It informed Mrs. Gaillot that there were penalties for Catholics "who provoke others to disobedience."

"Any further attempt by you," the letter continued, "through word or deed to hinder our orders or provoke our devoted people to disobedience or rebellion against the church will subject you to excommunication."

Nothing shatters a devout Catholic so much as the threat of excommunication. Excommunication cuts him off from attendance at mass, the taking of Holy Communion and Christian burial. He is an outcast from the communion of the faithful. Mrs. Gaillot admits the letter gave her a pause but nothing happened immediately.

Mrs. Gaillot waited a few days after receiving the letter. The letter was marked "personal and confidential," but she decided to make it public. Then she held a press conference and said that her study of the Bible had convinced her that God has revealed in Holy writ that racial integration was a sin.

She then asked for an interview with a priest in the hope she could convince the church that its views on integration were erroneous. Mrs. Gaillot had a conversation with Father Joseph Costello, instructor in moral theology and church law at Notre Dame Seminary, and cited to him Biblical passages which she interprets as being in favor of segregation. The interview left her position and that of the church unchanged.

Mrs. Gaillot now says she will never swerve from her course even if it means excommunication, and she already is thinking in terms of martyrdom.

"Look what they did to Joan of Arc," she says.

The archbishop is not receiving reporters and is issuing no statements. Two documents have come from the chancery of the archdiocese: The order of March 28 announcing the integration of parochial schools in the fall and the letter warning Mrs. Gaillot of the danger of excommunication. Six Catholic laymen, headed by Harold Dittman, discussed the formation of an organization to support the church against Mrs. Gaillot. They were advised against it at the chancery and they disbanded.

If Mrs. Gaillot is excommunicated, her husband, Bernard, plans to ask the church to excommunicate him, too. They have three sons, aged 21, 16, and 14. They removed the eldest from De La Salle Catholic school because, according to Mrs. Gaillot, "he was being taught that Jesus and the Virgin Mary were black." She cited the first chapter of the Solomon's canticle of canticles in the Catholic Bible: "I am black but beautiful, o ye daughters of Jerusalem, as the tents of cedar, as the curtains of Solomon."

An explanatory note in the Catholic Bible states that the reference is to the church: "That is, the church of Christ, founded in humility appearing outwardly afflicted and, as it were, black and contemptible: But inwardly, this is, in its doctrine and morally, fair and beautiful."

A Weekly Page of Background Information

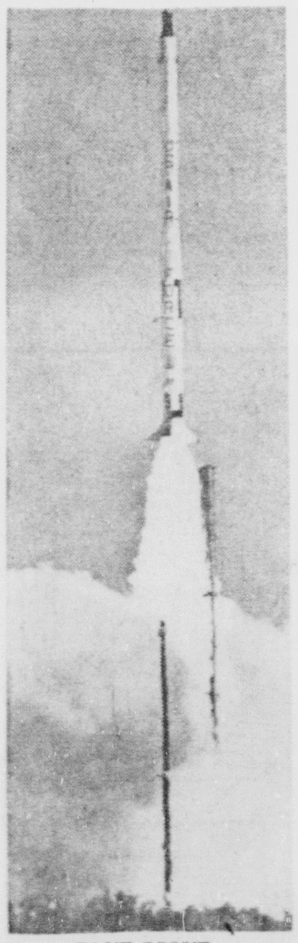

Space Operation Is Going Secret

By CHARLES W. CORDDRY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Kennedy administration intends to lock the door behind U.S. military operations in space.

The Defense Department, aiming to banish news of satellites with such unsavory designations as "spy in the sky," has ordered that henceforth all military space launches will be conducted in secret.

The department will admit only that something has been launched, but will not reveal what it was.

BLUE SCOUT
With secret payload

What the government had in mind in ordering the unannounced crackdown may be illustrated by the case of the U2 spy planes. From 1956 to May Day, 1960, American reconnaissance planes flew freely over the Soviet Union, unknown to the public of either nation.

The Soviet government knew it, but was too embarrassed to say anything until it managed to catch Francis Gary Powers.

The Russians are quite aware that America is developing both missile-warning and intelligence satellites—Midas and Samos. But Defense Department reasoning is that the Russians may be less annoyed, and less prone to protest, if the United States is silent about what it is doing.

The order banning press coverage of military space launches, and concealing the identity of orbiting military space craft, fits into a string of actions started in the first days of the Kennedy administration.

President John F. Kennedy urged the press to exercise self censorship in matters of national security. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara became so concerned about weapons data that he told Congress Russia should be led to think the Nike-Zeus antimissile was the greatest weapon ever devised.

McNamara started to reduce what he said was a vast library of military data in the public domain. Military spacecraft was a prime target. There has been steadily diminishing information about military space operations.

SPOTLIGHT ON SHAH OF IRAN

First Cousin To Crisis

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

His 21 years on the Peacock Throne has made Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi a first cousin to crisis.

He has had three wives, survived an assassin's bullets, warded off an attempt to overthrow him, fought the entrenched big landlords of his own country and remained a firm friend of the West despite glowerings and threats from neighboring Russia.

A trim, athletic figure belie his 42 years. A fleet of fast American and European automobiles, two private planes and an invaluable treasury of art in his magnificent palaces testify to an exciting but luxurious life.

LAND REFORMS

A massive land reform program — to which he has contributed many of his own crown holdings — and his efforts to wipe out centuries of official corruption and bribery, display a determination to build a modern, thriving nation for his 21 million subjects.

The Shah divorced his first two wives because they did not bear him a son who could inherit the 2,500-year-old Peacock Throne.

He married his present wife, dark-eyed Farah Diba, in December 1959. She bore him a son and heir who was named after the throne's father, Cyrus the Great.

Queen Dibah was a commoner—the daughter of a wealthy Iranian businessman—although on her mother's side she is a descendant of Shah Abbas the Great who ranked with England's Queen Elizabeth I in the 16th century as a world figure.

She and the Shah had known each other for many years. Although the Shah had shown no previous interest, she later confided to friends that the Shah was "The only man I ever loved."

The Shah's father, known to his subjects as Reza Shah, was an old-style, absolute monarch. He rose from colonel to king by forcefully seizing the throne.

Britain and the Soviet Union occupied Iran during World War II and sent him packing, installing his Swiss-educated son, then only 21, in his place.

CONTROL IN '46

The young Shah did not regain control of his country until 1946. Then he promptly sent troops into Azerbaijan Province in the north and ousted a puppet regime the Russians had left behind.

Three years later an assassin opened fire as the Shah was handing out diplomas at Tehran University. He was wounded in the face and shoulder but left the hospital the next day proclaiming "My will is unrelenting."

When fiery Mohammed Mossadegh rose to power as premier in the early 1950's, he effectively curbed many of the Shah's powers. In August, 1953, apparently with the Shah's backing, Mossedegh was overthrown by a coup.

CENTO KEYSTONE

Since then there has not appeared to have been any serious threat in Iran to the Shah's control.

His nation is the keystone of CENTO—the Middle East crescent of resistance to Soviet encroachment—and has received substantial amounts of American military and economic aid.

He is fighting internal subversion with the land reform program and has boldly stood up to Russian threats.

In 1954, on a visit to the United States, he said he and then President Dwight D. Eisenhower would have no difficulty understanding each other through "the language of truth and friendship."

THIS WEEK In The World

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

He was not one of the so-called "angry" young men of literature, but he was hopping mad and what he had to say will long be remembered.

None of Washington's newsmen had ever seen this president of the United States in such an agitated mood.

Only hours before U. S. Steel had announced that it was raising steel prices $6 a ton. Other major steel producers began to lift their prices, too. This happened after the industry and the United Steelworkers Union had negotiated a no-wage-increase contract that President John F. Kennedy hailed as non-inflationary.

McNAMARA

At his televised news conference, Kennedy excoriated "a tiny handful of steel executives" who showed "utter contempt for 185 million Americans." Kennedy voiced fears of a new inflationary spiral.

In New York, Roger Blough, chairman of the United States Steel Corp., remained calm. He told newsmen the increase was needed for modernization of the industry.

But the Justice Department was planning an investigation of Big Steel. And a subcommittee in the Senate was ready to begin an inquiry. Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara announced the armed services would shift steel buying to those companies which had not increased prices.

Then the new domestic crisis evaporated. Inland Steel Co.'s Chairman Joseph L. Block issued the statement from Chicago that Inland would not increase prices. Kaiser Steel of San Francisco echoed Inland's sentiments. Bethlehem Steel, one of the major producers, decided to rescind its price increase order. Eventually Blough's pacesetting U. S. Steel surrendered.

BLOCK

The capitulation was seen as a clear victory for Kennedy.

Kennedy grinned when he heard the news. He was no longer mad.

In Europe, France gave President Charles de Gaulle overwhelming support for his Algerian policies in a referendum. But Secret Army Organization attacks continued in Algeria.

One of France's military heroes, former Gen. Edmond Jouhaud, was sentenced to die on the guillotine for being one of the leaders of the OAS revolt against de Gaulle.

Other major developments:

Nuclear — Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev rejected the latest Anglo-American appeal for a controlled end to nuclear tests. Unless Khrushchev softens, the United States will resume atmospheric testing in the Pacific.

Maritime — The Justice Department issued an injunction that forced striking maritime workers on the West Coast to return to work for an 80-day cooling off period. The injunction came as Hawaii's food supplies dwindled to a dangerous low.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening star is Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1861, Union troops surrender to the Southerners at Fort Sumpter.

In 1865, President Abraham Lincoln was wounded fatally at Ford's Theater in Washington by John Wilkes Booth, well-known actor and Confederate sympathizer.

In 1910, President William Taft inaugurated a precedent by throwing out the first ball at the opening of the baseball season.

In 1952, the United States and Canada submitted plans for the hydro-electric power phase of the St. Lawrence Seaway project to the International Joint Commission.

A thought for the day: U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson once said: "Let's talk sense to the American people. Let's tell them the truth, that there are no gains without pains."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Save Double Of Clear-Cut Situations, Or May Backfire

When opponent makes an artificial bid you can often double immediately to show length and strength in the suit. Save this kind of double for clear-cut situations in which it is important to tell partner what to lead. Otherwise, your double may backfire.

Opening lead — ♣ Q

South's bid of two clubs was the Stayman Convention, asking North to show a major suit if he had one. This response to an opening notrump bid does not promise club length or strength.

West doubled to show his club length and strength. It's hard to see why West thought it advisable to get into the auction at all with his meager strength. Even if he escaped immediate punishment, there was still the danger that East might rely on him for a better hand and go wrong in the bidding or play later on.

As it happened, West didn't have to wait that long for his punishment. North redoubled to show club strength and length, and South was willing to accept this as a final contract.

EXTRA TRICKS: West opened the queen of clubs, hoping to draw trumps, but he couldn't lead out four rounds of trumps in one trick.

Declarer won with dummy's king of clubs, won a finesse with the queen of spades, cashed the top diamonds, and ruffed a diamond. He next cashed the ace of spades and the top hearts and led a heart toward dummy.

West put in the nine of clubs, and dummy over-ruffed with the ace. Declarer then ruffed another diamond with the seven of clubs, and West had to use the 10 of clubs to over-ruff.

This reduced West to J-6-5 of trumps, while dummy had the 8-4. No matter how West proceeded, dummy was sure to win a trick with the eight of clubs, for a total of 10 tricks. South scored 1,510 points for making the redoubled contract with two overtricks—almost a thousand points more than he could have made for a normal game contract, assuming that North would have succeeded in making game.

DAILY QUESTION: Partner opens with 2 NT, and the next player passes. You hold:

♠ A Q 5 2
♥ K 7 6 3
♣ 7 3 2

What do you say?

Answer: Bid three clubs, the Stayman Convention. Just like the response of two clubs to an opening bid of 1 NT, the response of three clubs to 2NT asks partner to show a major suit if he can.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Novato Chamber Gives Turner Membership Job

Hugh Turner, manager of radio station KTIM, was named membership chairman of the Novato Chamber of Commerce Thursday night.

Richard Bronberg was named parking committee chairman. The chamber board of directors voted to ask the Novato City Council and police department to work out and enforce a parking policy for Grant Avenue.

The board voted to seek a college graduate with courses in organizational management for secretary-manager. The chamber has been without a secretary-manager since the death of Col. Herbert Sears.

George Crusz, secretary-manager of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, spoke on the need for developing a good program if a chamber of commerce is to attract new members and perform its function in the community.

WELL, SORT OF . . .

Old Mill Park Gold Rush Fever

By BRUCE COLEMAN

Thirty-three lively fourth graders from Mill Valley's Old Mill School waded into Cascade Creek yesterday in search of gold—many of them found it.

The reason they found it was because their teacher, Betty Mielenz, had "salted" the creek with stones painted golden and chunks of gold gravel.

"It is the culmination of the class's study of the gold rush period in California history," Mrs. Mielenz said. The subject comes under social studies.

THARS GOLD IN OLD MILL CREEK — At least there was yesterday, as youngsters from Old Mill School in Mill Valley struck nuggets by the dozen. It was a golden windup to a class study of the California Gold Rush days. Carefully panning for nuggets at the waterfall is Tom Tribble, and David Gardiner (far right) wades in with boots. Their classmates, all in Forty-Niner garb, pitched in with as much enthusiasm as at an Easter Egg hunt. (Independent-Journal photo)

Pupils prepared the scene, a natural, in advance with a tent marked "Gold Gulch Store," a sign on a tree, "Hangman's Tree," and re-named the Old Mill "Sutter's Mill."

Other signs read "Coloma" with an arrow pointing the way and another "Bret Harte Writings." Jeffery Schwartz was Harte and was to write up the events.

The youngsters wore boots, carried gold pans and shovels, some of which were actually used in the gold rush days. In the stream they placed a sluice box. They were dressed as miners and depicted such persons as James Marshall, John Sutter, Sam Brannan, Lola Crabtree and Lola Montez.

Mrs. Mielenz said that she had arranged one such gold panning day many years ago and that "grown up students still come back and tell me about it."

In the background, were many mothers of the pupils.

Summing up the event was Heather Pemberton, dressed with a black beard as a male prospector. Asked how she liked the idea, she said "I love it. I struck it rich."

She had four large golden nuggets.

Marin Youth Is Heading For Berlin

Harry W. Herr of Mill Valley, who spent last summer in Berlin as a member of the Experiment in International Living, will return to Berlin next summer under a different international program.

Herr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Herr of 421 Ross Avenue, is a 1961 graduate of Tamalpais High School. He now is completing his freshman year in pre-medical studies at University of California at Davis.

He has been selected by the University of Minnesota to take part in its Classrooms Abroad Program, his parents announced. He will study advanced Germany for seven weeks, with part of this time spent at University of Berlin.

Later he will tour other parts of Europe in a car owned by two of his German friends.

The Naval Observatory in Washington, D.C. dictates the time for every clock in the United States.

Tam High Opera Performers Tops

By DAVID F. REED

Gian Carlo Menotti's "The Medium," presented last night by the Tamalpais High School Music Department, will be repeated tonight at the school's Ruby Scott Auditorium.

It is hard to believe that high school students could cope with this modern work.

First kudos are due Robert Greenwood who had the imagination and courage to undertake such a task. He not only served as musical director and conductor, but also staged the work in an utterly professional way.

The title role is performed by Sally Champlin, who at 17 years of age did a job which, for sheer maturity and understanding, would have done credit to a 40-year-old woman. Her acting and singing were equally superior.

The role of the young girl, Monica, is sung by Jan McCready, 15. Larry Goldsmith was the mute boy, Toby.

The pit orchestra was made up largely of freshman and sophomore players who played like veterans. Staging and lighting were also outstanding.

This reviewer was deeply moved by the quality of the performance. This was opera at its finest. What is more important for these students, it is music education in the highest sense.

Las Gallinas Sewer Annex Is Sought

Circulation of petitions for annexation of Venetia Harbor Maintenance District to the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District is nearly completed, sanitary district directors learned Thursday night.

Annexation of 94 homes in the harbor district was proposed by the Regional Water Pollution Control Board.

Petitioners told district directors most homeowners favor the annexation.

Japan, Soviet Pact

TOKYO (AP)—Japan and Russia will stage a joint maritime relief exercise in the northern Pacific bordering the two nations, the Japanese Maritime Safety Board said today.

Gate Bridge Soon To Be 25 Years Old

The 25th birthday party of the Golden Gate Bridge next month will be a two-day affair, but not on successive days.

Bridge Director Dan London, chairman of the publicity and advertising committee, told the directors yesterday a huge luncheon, for 450 or so persons, would be held at the St. Francis Hotel on the actual date, Friday, May 25.

Two days later, on Sunday, 1937 automobiles, plus some horseless carriages, will parade from Marin's Vista Point across the bridge to the San Francisco parking lot. There a commemorative plaque will be unveiled and a commemorative medal for the Silver Jubilee issued.

The bridge directors approved a $2,500 appropriation for the birthday expenses, which will be shared by the Redwood Empire Assn., another sponsor of the observance.

Mrs. Summers Is Feted For 20 Years Service To Marin

About 175 friends of recently retired County Planning Director Mary Summers gathered for dinner last night to honor her 20 years service to Marin.

The dinner, at Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club, was initiated by former Supervisor Vera Schultz, conservation leader Mrs. Caroline Livermore, planning commission chairman Dr. William Upton, Supervisors Chairman Walter Castro, property owner Harry Heifetz and Planning Director B. D. Dobbs.

Comments were brief by those introduced by former County Counsel Leland H. Jordon, master of ceremonies.

Castro said, "We can thank Mary for the work toward getting the civic center." He added: "The county lost a wonderful employee when she retired."

"We haven't lost her. She's promised to become the next president of the Marin Conservation League," said Dr. Joel Gustafson, current president.

Upton said that "if we live in a county with a few more amenities than some others, we have Mary's interest, energy and integrity to thank for it."

Judge Richard M. Sims Jr., former legal adviser to the commission, also singled out her integrity as a factor beyond question.

Mrs. Schultz was introduced by Jordon as "the person I still regard as the first lady of Marin."

Mrs. Summers, in a white sheath dress, lei of pale peach-colored carnations and chiffon scarf of deeper peach shade, thanked conservation leaders Mrs. Livermore and Mrs. Sepha Evers for aid through the years and praised the current board of supervisors.

"I'm awfully gratified we have Walter Castro on the supervisors and as chairman of the board, a real supporter of planning," she said. "He is a thinker and thinkers are planners. In my opinion Walter Castro has stood on the side of good."

She noted he was "joined by other members here tonight, Supervisor Bill Gnoss and Supervisor Peter Behr. We are fortunate to have this kind of talent on the board."

She praised Marin judges and the district attorney and county counsel for strong backing of planning and urged the county to continue cooperating with all branches of government "to preserve what we have."

Ida Scott Is Honored By Firemen

Honored guest at Wednesday's meeting of the Belvedere Volunteer Firemen was Belvedere City Councilman Ida Scott.

Mrs. Scott, who did not seek re-election to the council, and has been serving as fire commissioner, turned in her honorary commissioner's helmet and thanked the volunteers for their cooperation during her term of office.

Also at the meeting was W. A. (Sandy) McLean, wearing his gold retired chief's badge which had been presented to him at the previous meeting. McLean has served the Belvedere Fire Department for many years and is no stranger to fire fighting.

For 37 years he was on the Northwestern Pacific Railroad's fire department while employed as lead mill man. His three sons belong to the Belvedere Fire Department.

The volunteers voted to purchase a 16 mm. sound movie projector for training film and use at the annual "root beer bust."

Aug. 17 was set as the date for the annual Firemen's Ball.

Parking Elimination Near Span Protested

Leland S. Murphy, Marin director of the Golden Gate Bridge District, protested yesterday that the State Division of Highways has eliminated the west side parking area on the Marin end of the Golden Gate Bridge without consultation with the directors.

Murphy questioned general manager James Adam, who reported that the state had let the $206,977 contract to Ghilotti Brothers of San Rafael for widening U.S. Highway 101 at the north bridgehead. The work is being conducted in conjunction with the million-dollar widening of the bridge itself.

Murphy said the bridge board had passed a resolution approving a 20 to 25-car parking area and a return access road on the west side of the highway.

"It is not fair to the bridge district or the people of Marin county to eliminate the parking without consulting our board and I protest," Murphy said. He moved to refer the matter to committee for consideration of action to be taken up with the State Division of Highways.

Adam told Murphy the division engineers had told him the parking lot was eliminated after protests by the city of Sausalito, and that the plans for the widening without the area were submitted to both the Sausalito City Council and Marin County supervisors without protest.

Grand Jury Due Escaped Inmates Thursday Night

The case of the five San Quentin convicts, who escaped from prison on April 2 and were caught in Santa Venetia next morning, will be presented to the Marin County Grand Jury Thursday night.

The grand jurrors will meet in the county courthouse at 7:30 p.m.

Grand jurrors will also decide whether or not a murder charge should be filed against a San Anselmo father who admitted setting fire to his own house on March 24.

McDonald Huffman, 35, of 10 Ivy Lane, is being held in Marin County Jail on an arson charge. His 11-year-old daughter Donita died when she ran inside to get her pet cat. Huffman suffered painful burns in an effort to save her.

50 Rangers Begin Trip

Fifty Marinwood Rangers, 8-to-11-year-old boys, began a five-day trip to Grand Canyon, Death Valley and the Great Salt Lake today as part of their physical fitness program, Mrs. Wayne Sartain of Marinwood reported.

The Rangers, organized six months ago by William S. Lee of Novato, are dedicated to physical fitness. They meet twice a week: one day for sit up, push up and jump rope exercises and another day to climb Mt. Tamalpais.

The Grand Canyon trip, planned for the Easter vacation week, will give the boys new mountains to climb, Mrs. Sartain said. Lee is handling all expenses and will have chaperon help from fathers of four of the boys.

The trip will be made by truck. The boys, outfitted with ponchos, parkas, sleeping bags and other camping gear will camp out every night of the trip.

Goes To Jail: No Support For Family

A Berkeley truck driver, who jumped bail and vanished in 1959, began serving six months in Marin County Jail yesterday for failing to support his family, who live in Marin City.

He is Sylvester Lowell Richardson, 36, who has a wife and five children.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Donald E. Paterson Jr. said Richardson's family has received about $22,000 in welfare aid since 1950. Records show that Richardson was convicted of failing to support his family back in 1959, but he skipped bail and disappeared.

On Friday of last week, he was arrested for being drunk in a car in Kentfield and booked at county jail. There, Investigator Antoan Adam of the district attorney's office recognized him as the long-missing father.

Yesterday in court, Richardson told Judge Leonard A. Thomas that he had been in Missouri and in Oregon since 1959. He said he has a hard time finding work.

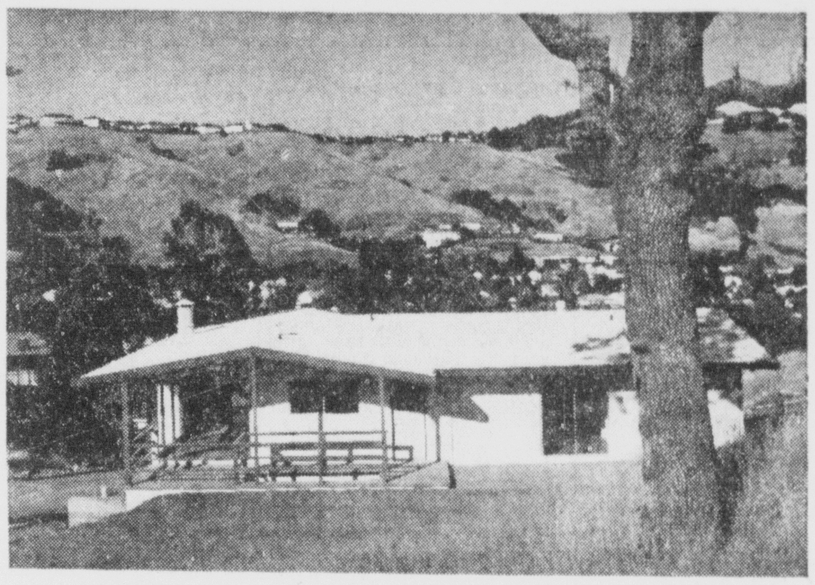

The judge ordered him to jail for six months. The man's wife has been working to help support the family, the district attorney reported.

Art, Garden Center Open House Slated

Memorial services will be conducted at 11:30 a.m. by Rev. Harold Hallett of St. John's Episcopal Church of Ross. Music will be presented by the Winnefred Baker Boys' Choir. The Ross Valley Players will perform a new one-act play, "Between Americans," at 2 p.m.

Other events will include early English dances, displays of paintings, pottery, flowers and antiques, art in action and story-telling for children.

Meet Dennie Willis—

Marin Educator Sees Big Job Ahead For The Schools

By RANDALL GOULD

Soviet Russia's earth-circling Sputnik in 1957 seems to at least one Marin County educator "the best thing that ever happened to American education."

"What appeared a great blow to us," amplifies Dennie B. Willis, "dramatically pointed out that we were no longer tops in everything.

"A country we looked down on had proved that it was not only as good as we were, but that it could pull itself up by its own bootstraps to do more.

"That made our people realize our need for better education. We were put on the pan—and we're still there. Not hopelessly, however.

"I HAVE A firm conviction that if there is a possibility for our children and our children's children to live under the free democratic way of life, it's going to come about only through educating every child in the United States to the limit of his ability."

Philosophy from the grass roots is to Willis, now superintendent of the Dixie School District near San Rafael, a natural interpretation of this age of jets, rockets, missiles and satellites. In the same sense, his beginnings with one-room country schoolhouses strikes him as a proper preparation for building something bigger if not better.

This quiet man of 53 is eternally thinking and testing, as he was taught to do by winning his way past obstacles. It is not his way to accept anything instantly. But when he decides, he can be firm.

Born in Boonville, in the Anderson Valley of Mendocino County of Scotch-Irish parents March 21, 1909, "Dennie" started as Dennis—Dennis Burke. Soon, though, there were four of the same name in the same locale. The uncle after whom he was named became "Big Dennis," another relative was "Little Dennis," a stranger kept plain Dennis, and the boy accepted and has cheerfully lived with the unusual name of Dennie.

HIS FORBEARS had come to this country early and pressed westward intermittently, past Kentucky, and Tennessee into Texas; Alexander Black Willis, his father, was born in New Mexico and kept on to the west to marry Zola Rosalia in Mendocino which he finally made his home.

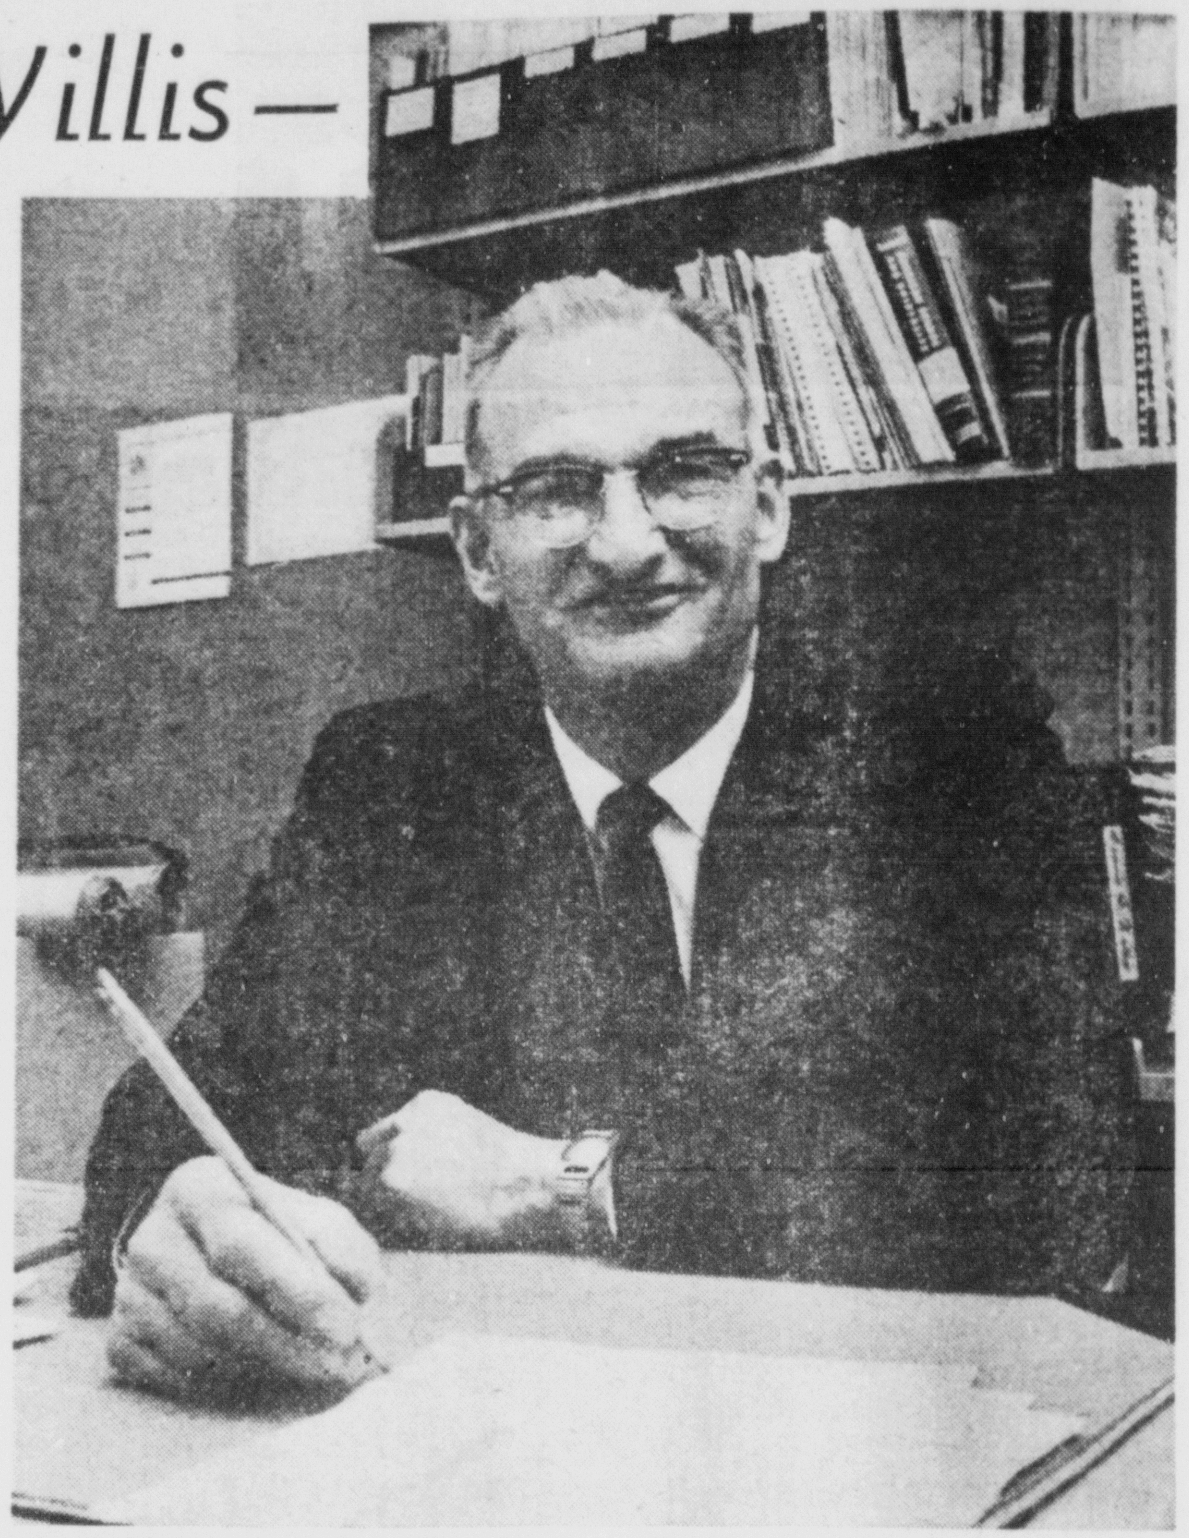

The family homesteaded in the Anderson Valley, raising sheep, cattle and hogs.

"I was a senior in high school at Boonville," Willis recalls, "before we lived near enough to any school so I could walk. Mostly I rode to school horseback at least six miles, and the schools were one-room.

"That is when I learned how much depends on the teacher. I had some excellent ones, a few not so good."

Finally the family had to get closer to the school because its younger members, two sisters and a brother, found the distances too great. One of these sisters is still in Boonville, teaching. The other, Allo Logan, is in Larkspur. The brother is on a big ranch in Oregon.

While his father did various jobs for nearby ranchers and even served as high school custodian, Dennie progressed to graduation from the Anderson Valley Union High School in 1927 and proceeded to enroll in Humboldt State College at Arcadia, Humboldt County.

IN EDUCATION as teacher and administrator since 1932, Dennie B. Willis has been superintendent of the rapidly-growing Dixie School District in Marin County since 1955. He's a plugger for ". . . educating every child in the United States to the limit of his ability" as the best way to insure the continuation of our free, democratic way of life. (Independent-Journal photo)

"I HAD AN idea of my bent, but it wasn't teaching," he recalls. What he had in mind was to become either a chemical engineer or a doctor.

But a "fine professor" by the name of Wheeler changed all by penetrating one of the boy's guarded secrets — that he was cleverly, partly subconsciously, covering up a condition of color-blindness.

Young Willis had devised means to protect himself and he had received A grades in his high school chemistry although he had a blue-green deficiency which prevented him from seeing red though he could perceive green.

He started out famously in Wheeler's classes including mathematics, physics and chemistry and after getting past his first seminar sailed through his next task in confidence.

The work was turned in, examined by the professor, and then Wheeler announced: "I don't know what you have after this lab, but I'm keeping you after school."

Willis realized something serious had happened and he was right. Wheeler had devised a special test to sort out students who were color-blind. The professor told him, "You have made a beautiful proof, but you'll be shocked when I say you've come up with the wrong answers."

Worse, Wheeler said: "You're not going on—you have to find something else. I have to make it impossible for you to go on."

He did just that by splitting grades as between lectures (on which Willis got A) and lab (where he failed).

"So that ended that," says Willis. "I guess it would throw anybody. It did me."

OF COURSE he did not give up, but for a time he drifted. At last by accidental exposure he found himself interested in teaching.

But at the same time he found himself in the midst of the great depression. The fall of 1929 brought the big crash and Dennie didn't go back to college for "there was no money in the pot." He returned in the spring of 1930 on borrowed money which he spent the next summer paying back.

Again he failed to enroll in the fall of 1930, though he'd made up his mind he wanted to be a teacher. So had four of his friends. All got jobs, luckily, and Dennie "did a little bit of everything" to make $2.50 or $3 a day.

All five of the boys somehow made out, precariously but with determination; working, studying, getting back to school, taking examinations. All five passed but only two got jobs and that didn't include young Dennie.

OF COURSE he finally did get his first teaching job, in the fall of 1932, at Mina, which was a post office serving large ranches north of Covelo, in Mendocino's Round Valley.

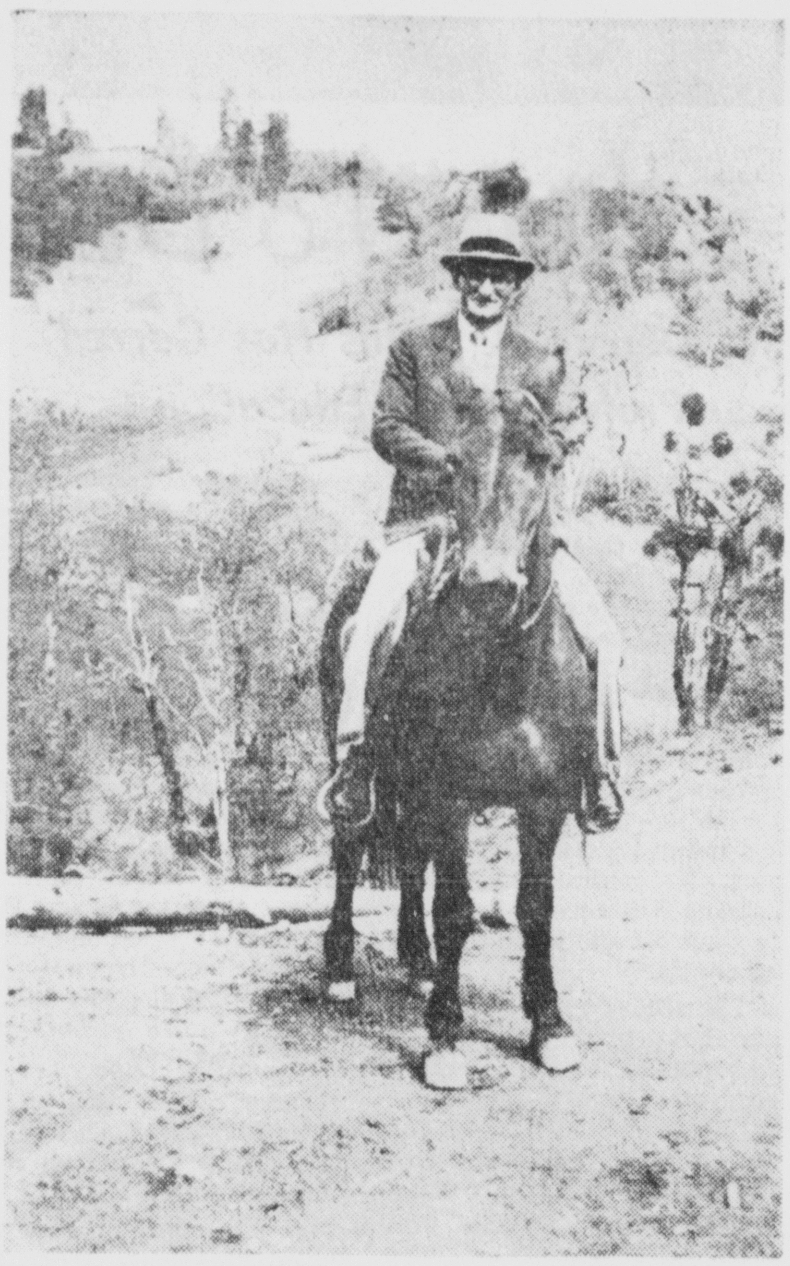

There he had his own one-room school with 15 youngsters of all grades, isolated but with great rewards.

"I taught there two years and had the time of my life," says Willis. "Of course I had to stick it out all alone. I saw the rural supervisor once a year at most, in the spring when he could get in. I was quite successful."

When he left, to cross a river to another similar school, it was for an odd reason—all 14 of the Mina youngsters at that time were girls "and I didn't think it was right for a man to be teaching all those girls."

But he departed with regret. All his pupils had been drawn from five families, they provided no problem of discipline, and they were eager

THE PRIDE AND JOY of the Dixie School District is its new Don Timoteo School in Terra Linda. Dixie District Supt. Dennie B. Willis pays a visit to the school and chats with fifth grade teacher Dave Lusk in front of the new building. (Independent-Journal photo)

From One-Room School To Dixie District

That's The Career Dennie B. Willis Has Carved In His Chosen Profession Of Education to learn. School was the center of everything interesting to this "wonderful group of youngsters" as Willis fondly recalls them.

Willis loves to linger on this period of being out in the mountains where dirt roads were impassable in the rainy times. To get 22 miles to town would take at least two and a half hours if one got through at all.

Life was hard, particularly in such depression times. Two of the families were in the area simply because it was the cheapest place to live that they could find.

YET FROM the educator's viewpoint, Willis today thinks that by comparison "we've missed the boat in more heavily populated areas."

When a teacher has more than one grade in his room, says Willis, he has to make a real effort to teach.

"You tailor your program to the child's needs," Willis puts it.

With books for several grades available it is possible to let the pupil work where his natural gifts and bent direct. By contrast, in bigger schools Willis sees a tendency to slack off and let things run by routine.

The second school, another one-room place, was in its last year of existence which everyone knew.

"That's where I rode the mule," Willis recalls in showing a photo of himself mule-mounted in his Sunday best for a foray into town. There was no road at the school, no road at the house where he boarded; only one family, in fact, was on a road, although some had cars which they parked on nearby roads.

All the children rode to school and there was a stable on the grounds.

Willis used the mule of the family with which he lived. It was named "Jack" because all the mules of the locality were named Jack. There was no need to worry about clothes. Even the teacher could dress easy, usually corduroys and a sweater with cowboy hat.

There was a long winter vacation enforced by conditions. Willis got back to the Humboldt State campus during this time and he also took correspondence courses. The college gave credit for "practice teaching" and Willis won his degree.

EVEN WITH this, jobs were elusive. But his chance came in a then two-room school at Laytonville, on what is now Highway 101.

The woman principal married and by accepted practice that put her out—a point of interest to Willis both because he got the job in 1936, and because when he married Colorado-born Marjorie Caldwell in 1938 she was only allowed to finish out her year as the other teacher.

Today, though, she teaches at Meadow Park in the San Jose School District on Hamilton Air Force Base.

In his earlier one-room school experience Willis had learned a basic fact about teaching, equally applicable to his mule-riding. This was that best results are obtained by mild methods of persuasion.

"I don't think you can push people around," he says today. "Working with country kids, who had minds of their own, I learned you can lead as far as you have the power in you to do it."

Now in Laytonville came the beginning of Willis' building period, a time when he learned he had other talents beyond teaching though teaching was and still is his great love.

"I never meant to stay 11 years in Laytonville, to 1947," Willis muses. "I expected soon to find a new bigger job somewhere else. But the challenge was there. I didn't have to go."

WHAT CREATED the challenge was mostly that a timber tract was opened and mills came in. This meant fast growth from the two-teacher school with 65 pupils, when Willis arrived, with classes through the eighth grade, to an enrollment of 350 to 400 pupils in first through twelfth grades combining elementary and high schools with about 14 teachers.

That this meant strenuous work for the principal is evident enough. But another angle stands out in Willis's mind, and helped round out his own education. This was the fact that Laytonville is near the Round Valley Indian Reservation and Willis solved hard problems of Indian pupils.

"You can't keep an Indian kid in school unless he wants to be there," says Willis. "You have to catch him every time. I was convinced that both the Indian and the white youngsters had things to learn and to exchange.

"I didn't give a whoop whether the Indians learned to read. The idea was to let them express themselves in their own way. Indians are very sports-minded and this gave them a wedge. For the first time in history Laytonville put Indians on a baseball team.

"And we even got Indian boys to tell the whites how to catch fish where nobody but the Indians had caught them. We never attempted to change the Indians' way of life at home, but when we could help the Indian we did. Our cafeteria, for instance, taught the Indian to eat white food and the Indian and white soon ate side by side.

"During all this, we graduated the first Indian youngster ever graduated from elementary school in Laytonville. By the time I left we had graduated two from high school."

All this seems to have had little bearing on development of an important sector of Willis' world philosophy on education—that it's necessary to see the viewpoints of people of widely differing backgrounds. Says he:

"I DON'T think we're going to convince the people of other countries that democracy is right until we learn to accept this fact. We must realize that a country governed by the people elsewhere can take a different shape than the one in which we ourselves live. How can we understand Mexico, or Indonesia, or Viet Nam, until we have the ability to look at democratic ideals through the eyes of others?"

Finally Willis became restive, though, and he went back to the Anderson Valley to become principal of the high school from which he had graduated 20 years before. At the same time he was superintendent of the elementary school district.

During his first year back in Boonville he did what was necessary to make a unified school district, of which he became superintendent as well as principal of the high school.

In 1951 he came to Marin County and opened the Santa Venetia school where he remained two years, then opened the Davidson School as its first principal. He kept after another degree and achieved his Master's from San Francisco State College in 1954.

Then he came to Dixie district July 1, 1954, and was assigned as a teacher.

After teaching in the Community Building at Terra Linda, where he handled the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades, he became superintendent the following year—like many other events, not as he'd planned.

"When I came to San Rafael, in the back of my thinking was that I'd had about all I wanted of the business end," Willis recalls. "I wanted to get back to teaching the kids. But the same old thing happened again."

So Believes Dixie District School Chief Who Is Always Hunting For Something Better

another period of tremendous growth. When he started in Terra Linda there were 23 youngsters enrolled at the time school closed.

Now there are six schools with 2,700 students spread through Terra Linda, Marinwood, Lucas Valley and territory eastward from Highway 101 to San Pablo Bay. Willis' administration building at present, but probably not for long, is an "early American" quaint little frame structure just off the highway, originally a private school for the family of landowning Henry Miller.

The name "Dixie" seems somehow to stem from the Miller family which was southern in origin. Willis has heard the school was named after a daughter by the name of Dixie.

There is also a theory that the Millers and a retainer family, both from the land of Dixie, sought to keep the southern touch when the school was enlarged by admission of pupils from the Lucas family.

Planning estimates are being based, says Willis, on belief that this district will have from 8,000 to 10,000 pupils 20 years from now.

In the midst of this never-ending task of building, Willis has managed to serve as president of the North Coast Section of the California Teachers Assn., then as member of its council, among other chores.

But also he has managed to "keep his hand in" with a little teaching because, he says, "I still hope to get back to teaching — there's something about it that is wonderfully rejuvenating."

Willis's admiring friends feel that practical application of this attitude is behind Dixie's reputation for enlargement of students' natural gifts.

School isn't everything. A relaxed life at 35 Oak View Drive, Los Ranchitos, is enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Willis with their 14-year-old foster son Dan Dobozin who is a freshman at Terra Linda High School.

There Willis has raised chinchillas as a hobby since 1953. Characteristically, he's still not satisfied with the fur quality so far achieved.

I'm a farm boy," he says a little defensively. "I need some kind of animal. The economics? Well I made interest on my investment last year — if I don't count my own labor!"

LOOKING BACK over the dual aspect of his educational career, Willis stresses broad philosophy above the building aspects. His building, he feels, has represented only a normal response to the best of his ability as he was confronted repeatedly with the needs of a series of fast-growing communities.

"We had to keep building, and I delivered all I knew," he says. "The background of working up from a one-room school probably helped as we expanded our educational establishments. It's been hard work but satisfying."

Less satisfying, Willis feels, is the way education for a while tended to "go to seed" in a process now reversed suddenly by Sputnik.

"Back in the 1920s," he recalls, "people had great pride in education. They provided marvelous buildings and wonderful teaching staffs for that time. There was a tendency toward graduation from high school rather than elementary, and for a larger percent to go to college.

"Then they rested on their laurels. We got jet planes but had the same school seats and books. It wasn't a localized situation, but national.

"A turning point began to develop about 1950 but the general public was not yet awakened. Sputnik in 1957 was what really did the job."

EVEN NOW HE feels that only a start is being made, in such directions as his own "teacher aid program" based on the joint responsibility of home and school. Education of the younger, says Willis, involves everything with which they come in contact. Thus it is logical to "bring the home to school," enlisting the help of volunteer mothers who give enough extra supervision to let the teacher concentrate full attention on 10 or 20 youngsters in turn out of classes of 28 or 30.

All six of the Dixie schools now have this but not all are yet fully staffed.

"I know we're not teaching in our elementary schools the things we're capable of teaching," he says restlessly. "The teaching accepted 20 years ago isn't good enough for today. Nothing was smaller than the atom when I went to school, and now we've smashed it.

"We must acknowledge that the teacher himself must continuously learn. The educator is dealing with the most complicated of creations, the human mind. Being human as we are, we try to find our answers in simple terms.

"Our tools and curricula should be subject to improvement as rapidly as we can train teachers and get the acceptance of the public.

"There's no place in the labor market for many now coming out of the high schools — they don't have what the market wants to buy.

"YET I'M convinced that many graduating from high schools today have as much knowledge as those who graduated from college 30 years ago. There is great need to carry to college the cream of the crop."

This ferment of thinking bubbles up from a broad base, for Willis tends to see his own small world in large-world terms. Dixie District has had Indians from India, Chinese, Japanese, Koreans, all of whom have been encouraged to "show our youngsters how they live elsewhere, to prove that they're different from us but all fine people."

Mankind, skirting along the verge of destroying itself, seems to Willis desperately in need of salvation through education in the broad sense he constantly envisages.

"Our great difficulty," as he sees it, "is to find understanding of the other person's point of view, and also of his right to have it."

RAISING CHINCHILLAS has been a hobby with Dennie B. Willis since 1953. "I'm a farm boy," he says. I need some kind of animal." (Independent-Journal photo)

MUNICIPAL FIRE PROTECTION CAN PAY BIG DIVIDENDS

When is the best time to fight a fire? Before it starts.

To be effective, fire prevention must be a community project. It must be conducted with equal energy in the home, at the office and at town hall.

The importance of maintaining top notch municipal fire protection should be stressed particularly.

This phase of fire protection was graphically brought to mind after reading reports of a talk given recently by Everett W. Fowler, chief engineer of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Mr. Fowler warned that many cities in the United States are losing out on public benefits by failing to see the advantages of improved municipal fire protection.

I believe his points were well taken and bear repeating.

Comparing good firefighting services to a savings account, Mr. Fowler said that when a city pays out money for installing or improving fire protection, the municipality, in effect, is putting money into a bank and can anticipate regular returns in benefits to residents of the community.

Illustrating his argument, Mr. Fowler outlined a six point dividend earning program based on better fire protection.

1. Greater safety against personal injury and accidental fire death for residents of the community.
2. Better job security, since many burned out businesses either fail to reopen, move to a different city or are inoperative for an extended period after a serious fire.
3. Greater attractiveness to business and industry looking for an appropriate city in which to locate.
4. Improved business prospects resulting from lessened dangers from indirect losses.
5. Lower rates of insurance generally result if the municipal fire protection is improved to a sufficient degree.
6. Greater prestige for the community.

These are among the many reasons improved fire protection deserves our most vigorous support. Fire prevention, however, saves more than money—it saves lives.

"I Thought Any Garment Could Be Drycleaned"

Any garment can be drycleaned, but please don't try it. In the days of cotton, wool and silk, there wasn't too much trouble. Today, with a multitude of synthetic fibers by themselves and in combination with natural fibers plus plastics of many, many types, even paper, and the lamination of fibers with plastics and insulating synthetic materials, caution is an important word.

Some new fangled synthetics simply do not stand up in drycleaning. Some clean perfectly in a petroleum-base solvent, but not in a synthetic solvent and vice-versa. Frequently, drycleaning solvent will dissolve the binding agent that laminates two or more materials or holds the lining material to the garment fabric. Puckering or complete separation results and either situation is most unsatisfactory.

Do-it-yourself drycleaning has that disadvantage. Unless there is a professional drycleaner at hand to examine garments and to instruct in their handling, uneducated drycleaning can be disappointing and costly. Any garment can be drycleaned, however, the safest procedure is to entrust it to a trained professional.

Mortar And Pestle Date Back To 1620

Marin Collector Adds A Prized Piece To Display

GUILD MARK on the 1620 Innsbruck pestle recently added by Niels Schultz to his collection is examined by Mrs. Lorraine Rocco of Greenbrae Pharmacy. Left to right are the Innsbruck mortar, a goblet mortar of polished brass, a Danish mortar, a mortar of Roman design, another Danish mortar, a 1733 bronze from Kunsthaus City near Hamburg, Germany, and an Austrian mortar. (Photo by Ken Molino)

Niels Schultz, Greenbrae developer and world traveler, has added another mortar and pestle to his collection on display in the Greenbrae Pharmacy.

The new addition is of bell bronze and cast in 1620 probably near Vienna. Schultz found it in Innsbruck, near the Brenner Pass in the Austrian Tyrol.

THE GUILD MARK 1620 means little in passing. We recognize that it is old, but beyond our own years dates are only relative.

1620—In America a misunderstood minority on the good ship Mayflower touched the shores of a future New England. The Jamestown settlement in Virginia was celebrating its 13th birthday and a year before had established the House of Burgesses, the first legislative body in English America.

Cortez had come and gone in Mexico and left his stamp of cruelty and greed.

In England, James I had just authorized an English Bible (St. James version) and George Abbot was his Archbishop of Canterbury. Shakespeare had written his plays and passed on to his reward four years before.

Paul the Fifth sat on the papal throne in Rome and in Pisa, Galileo was busy dropping weights from the tower which, even then, leaned.

In 10 years Shah Jehan would build the Taj Mahal.

FRANCE WAS ruled by Louis XIII and 23 years would pass before his son Louis XIV started his long reign.

Michael, the first Romanoff ruled in Russia.

In Austria, at the time that our mortar and pestle was cast, Hapsburg Francis I dominated European politics and had since the signing of the Treaty of Vienna, five years before.

Yes, 1620 was a long time ago. Eleven generations of men have come and gone, but the mortar and pestle is still attractive and shining.

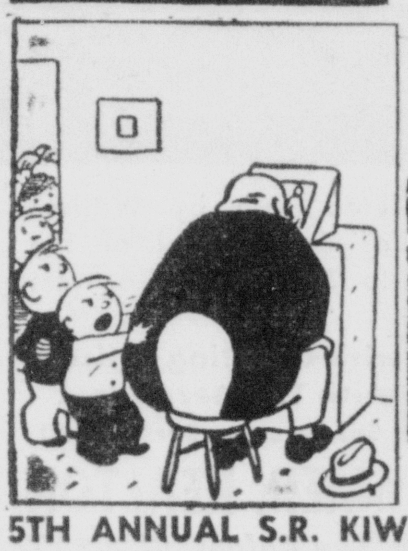

It is now the seventh piece in the Schultz collection. It is also the oldest and largest. Until now the largest piece has been one of 1733 vintage from Hamburg, about two-thirds the size of the Innsbruck mortar.

Three are polished brass and four of bronze. One carries the seal of Hapsburg Austria and one has the squat appearance of the Roman mortars. Each has been sought out and purchased specifically for the collection at Greenbrae.

A Wartime Poem Tells The Story Of Night Workers

By DON KEOWN

"These are they who work all the nights through,
who capture the joy of new mothers,
who fasten down love words with tape . . . "

These lines are from the long poem, "Night Clerk," written during World War II by Kate Rennie Archer, poet and now a teacher of creative writing at Dominican College in San Rafael.

Now, nearly two decades after "Night Clerk" was written, it has been published in pamphlet form through arrangements made by Mrs. Archer with the Andrews Printing Co. of San Rafael.

It is, she hopes, the start of a series of such pamphlets preserving poetry too long for magazine use and which might otherwise be lost. The booklets will be published under the title of Glenwood Editions.

If many years have passed since Mrs. Archer wrote "Night Clerk," the unusual circumstances under which it was "penned" remain indelibly stamped in her mind.

IT CAME, she remembers, at a time when she was performing emergency war work on the night shift with Western Union in Chicago.

"There was a breakdown," she recalls, "and so for a time nothing was coming through or going out. So I used those rare off-work minutes to begin the poem."

It must, she believes, therefore be one of the few poems written not in pen and ink, by pencil or on a typewriter, but on a Western Union keyboard.

Later, during a 1 a.m. coffee break at an across-the-street cafeteria, she completed the poem.

The "coffee break people" at the cafeteria were the first to hear it read.

Mrs. Archer says the poem has had "previous notice and comment in business publications, but this printing keeps the record."

She regards her poem as vital, pictorial and belonging to the war era—an era "we hope is not going to be repeated."

She also describes the poem as "a vignette of the graphic telegrams that came over the wires, the efficiency of the workers, engineers, clerks and officials who played such an important part in the intelligence service."

"The pamphlet form of publishing permits poets and essayists to preserve and help keep alive the forms of classical writing which have been neglected and scorned for many years of free, very free, writing," she adds.

MRS. ARCHER has agreed to serve as editor for the Andrews company of poetry to be conserved in future Glenwood editions.

Her own work has previously been published in seven books of poems and in magazines in several countries.

Mrs. Archer has taught at Dominican College and the other Dominican schools for 16 years. She has appeared on radio, discussing folk lore and folk poetry.

In March of Events, Benjamin de Casseres wrote: "Mrs. Archer knows whereof she speaks. Sincerity and power distinguish her poems."

KATE RENNIE ARCHER, poetess and teacher at Dominican College in San Rafael, reads one of her published books of poetry. A poem written by her during wartime under most unusual circumstances, "Night Clerk," has just been published locally in pamhplet form.

MORALS CANNOT BE
LEGISLATED IN SACRAMENTO

The medical and legal professions, to cite only two examples, maintain their own code of ethics. They police their own miscreants, and by and large, they do a very creditable job.

It has not been found necessary to pass ligislation to spell out a code of ethics for these professions.

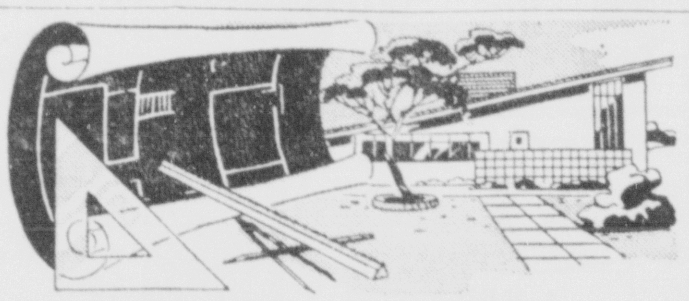

Yet, because of a number of unscrupulous car dealers eager for the fast buck, it has been found necessary to pass specific legislation designed to control specifically the activities of car dealers.

And still the hungry ones employ devious tactics, gimmicks and flagrant misrepresentation in their greed for profit.

This situation is a sorry mess, and the solution is not easy to find. Only an enlightened public can swing the tide back to legitimate practices.

Just starve them out by avoiding them.

We're not worried at Ames Ford Sales. Let the others use the gimmicks. We'll just continue to sell on profit margins low enough to attract discriminating buyers.

A Living Laboratory

By CORENA GREEN

Now that most of the migrating waterfowl are leaving the Richardson Bay Sanctuary, so, too, has Audubon Society Warden John Larson.

Larson has departed for his "summer retreat" at Green Island Sanctuary in Texas.

Behind him and volunteer Elizabeth Terwilliger are another successful season of conducting educational activities for school children of Marin at the Richardson Bay sanctuary and its historic Dickey House on the Tiburon Peninsula.

Come October, this team will begin a new educational series.

THE VOLUNTEER education program is under the direction of Bertha Bedilion, and makes it possible for Marin children to visit, during school hours, the sanctuary to learn firsthand the lessons, the beauties and the values of nature.

Three years ago only the pupils of a single Marin classroom made use of the Marin sanctuary as a learning center. During the last two months of the 1961-62 season, more than 1,100 school children, accompanied by their teachers and some parents, visited the sanctuary to make use of the unusual educational service.

Mrs. Bedilion has compiled a teachers' resource book for use by instructors in preparation for the visits to the sanctuary. This permits the teachers to give added meaning to the field trips.

THE PROPERTY upon which the sanctuary is located was originally given to the Marin Conservation League by Rosie Verrall, the beloved "Goat Lady" of the Tiburon Peninsula. The league, in turn, turned it over to the Marin Audubon Society for sanctuary purposes. It is now the society's headquarters.

But, Mrs. Bedilion says, perhaps the most heartwarming of the many good uses to which the scenic property is being put is in seeing the young school children learning on the spot of the wonders of nature.

She is especially proud of the many "thank you" letters she has received from children after their visits.

The natural flora and fauna of the sanctuary, incidentally, must still compete for the youngsters' interest with Mrs. Verrall's grazing goats. To the fascinated children, the animals represent a continuing remnant of the fast-disappearing Marin rural life.

But that natural wildlife, thanks to the efforts of the Audubon Society, the Marin Conservation League and other groups, remains the chief sanctuary attraction.

The Dickey Memorial House, which serves as Audubon and sanctuary headquarters, is the original home of Dr. Benjamin Lyford, who married Hilarita Reed, daughter of John Reed, owner of the original Spanish grant which included the Tiburon Peninsula. The Lyfords occupied the house while it was located on Strawberry Point. In 1957 it was moved by barge across the bay to its present location. It was refurbished by Mrs. Donald R. Dickey in memory of her ornithologist husband.

The educational program is closely coordinated with the Louise A. Boyd Museum of Natural Science in San Rafael and the Marin County Schools Department.

ALSO HELPING with the program is the National Audubon Resource Center in Berkeley. Many free teaching aids are available through the center.

Larson and thousands of birds will return next fall to Tiburon. Then he and Mrs. Terwilliger will reconvene their nature study classes for Marin school children and the many youth groups which use the facilities after the school day is over.

"It is truly the beginning of a living laboratory for the future citizens and leaders of Marin," Mrs. Bedilion prophecies.

AUDUBON WARDEN John Larson directs Sausalito third graders as they take turns peering through a telescope in front of the Dickey House at birds. In photo below, you can peer over the children's shoulders and see for yourself what they were looking at—wild birds feasting on feed which the visiting pupils had previously scattered for them.

ONE OF THE BEST ways to differentiate among the many kinds of birds found at the Richardson Bay Sanctuary, volunteer Elizabeth Terwilliger tells the children and accompanying parents, is by their wing action while in flight. And Mrs. Terwilliger, who served as guide for the pupils on their visit to the sanctuary, demonstrates the flight of one of the birds.

THE CHILDREN CLUSTER around Mrs. Terwilliger to examine her find—some barnacles—on the sanctuary's beach. She will show the youngsters how the barnacle operates its "doors" to trap food when the tide comes in. The sanctuary abounds with such marine life as well as birds, plants and small wildlife. It is "a living laboratory" for visiting school children.

LET'S LISTEN IN

On Nature Lesson For Marin Kids At Audubon Sanctuary

(Editor's Note: Want to join the children from a Marin school as they take a nature tour of the Richardson Bay Sanctuary under the guidance of volunteer Mrs. Elizabeth Terwilliger? You can eavesdrop on such a visit below. The comments not in quotes are Mrs. Terwilliger's commentary as she instructs the youngsters in nature. In quotes are the children's questions and observations.)

Let's go for a walk. Let's look up, look around and down. What do we find?

White droppings at our feet. What does this mean? Some one perches overhead. Look, there's a nest. Listen, a sharp scream. A sparrow hawk.

How do you know? Watch him flutter his wings. This helps him stay in one spot in the air while he looks for lunch.

Lunch? Oh, yes, a snake or a mouse. Where? In the grassy hill. Let's go find the entrance to a mouse's home.

"I found one."

"I found one, too," call the children as they climb the hill.

Wait, here is a narrow path that some one uses. Who made it?

"The goats?"

No, they are tied up.

"The deer?"

No, they need more trees and shrubbery.

"Raccoons?"

YES, THIS is raccoon alley. Every one stand on it. See how narrow it is. Where does it go? To the beach. Raccoons like to eat shell fish. Look, here are some tiny pieces of shell they couldn't digest . . .

Let's go to the top of the hill and see what we can find. What's this?

"A wild onion?" "A lily bulb?"

No, this is an Indian soap root. Watch, let's take off the outside fiber. The birds use it for their nests. Here is the root. Feel it. It is sticky. The Indians and Spanish used it for soap.

Here's something to taste. What do you think it is?

"It tastes like licorice."

It is fennel. Here's something to smell—two kinds of sage.

COME FEEL this and tell me what you learn about it.

"Ouch, it is sharp!"

Yes, it is live oak. Watch out over there—poison oak. Leaves three, let them be. That is a warning you should always remember. How do you know it is poison oak? Three leaves on a stem, rounded edges and a rounded end.

But wait, there are two other plants in Marin that have three leaves on a stem. Wild strawberry grows flat on the ground and has tiny edges. Blackberry has sharp edges on its leaves as well as thorns. Poison oak can be a bush or a vine, so look before you touch . . .

Let's go to the beach. What will we find? Who lives there? Turn over a rock, but remember, after you have done so, turn it back, because that is the roof of some one's house.

"I found a crab." "Here's a crab with something under it."

Those are crab eggs.

"What are these jumping bugs?"

Those are amphipods. This means two kind of legs, one for hopping and one for walking.

"I found a tiny snail."

THAT'S A periwinkle. Hold him in your hand. He has a little back door.

"Look, he is opening it. Here he comes."

Touch his door and he will close it. See.

"What are those white things on the rocks?"

Those are barnacles. Every one put your first two fingers together at the end so your nails touch. Now separate your nails, but keep your finger tips together. Now touch nails together again. Your nails are like the barnacle's doors. . . .

Look up. What's that flying. A duck? Is he in a hurry?

"Yes, he is."

LOOK, THERE'S a big white bird flying. He is bringing the air toward him because his wings are so long.

"Who is he?"

He's an American egret. There's a seagull. How do you know? Never in a hurry.

There is a bird whose wings make a V-pattern. That is a turkey vulture. If his wings were out straight, he would be a hawk.

Does any one know any bird calls? Let's try some . . .

Why are we able to find all these plants and birds and animals on this wildlife refuge?

Because Mrs. Verrall, who is 78 years old, loved the land and wanted it to stay like this always. She gave her land to the Marin Conservation League and the National Audubon Society, and they promised that they will always protect it.

She loves children to come with their teachers and hopes every one will learn to love the land, their heritage, as she loves it.

Let us go and thank her.

THE IMITATION of the calls of some of the birds found in the sanctuary is demonstrated by Mrs. Terwilliger to the Sausalito youngsters who then follow her example. Five fingers, she says, denotes the five hoots of the great horned owl, four fingers, the four soft coos of the mourning dove, three fingers the three plaintive notes of the golden crowned sparrow, and so on.

THIS, THE YOUNG "naturalists" are told, is the Indian soap plant whose roots were used by both the Indians and the Spanish as soap. Its fibers, birds have learned, are ideal for nest-building. (Independent-Journal photos)

A Home Run King Takes Turn At Bat

ROGER MARIS AT BAT by Roger Maris and Jim Ogle, Duell, Sloan and Pearce, distributed by Meredith Press, 236 pages, $2.95. Reviewed by Barbara Hosmer.

"I was as happy as it is possible for anyone to be. I didn't care about it being in 162 games. It was the biggest home run of my life. What is the use of saying anything else?"

What use, indeed? Anyone who ever booed an umpire knew the magic numbers changing from day to day right up to 61 in 162, and that M and M were the home runningest hitters in baseball.

Here's the personal story of Rog, who again makes headlines for every word he utters or refuses to utter, told by himself from the day that Dan Topping invited him to lunch and told him, "Forget your batting average and go after home runs . . . we would rather see you hit a lot of homers than hit .300," to the September day when he had hit more home runs than any man in baseball only to open the World Series going after bad balls and with the timing off on his swing.

Once again Marric involves Commander George Gideon and his Scotland Yard colleagues in not one but a number of cases that move simultaneously toward their climaxes. And once again he handles that difficult approach with the touch of a master.

This time Gideon is at the helm of preparations for a meeting of the heads of state of the Big Four to be held in London.

At least two fanatical assassins are hoping to take advantage of the occasion to mete out death. Pickpockets and other thieves are mobilizing to reap the harvest of the huge crowds which the event will attract. And murder and other crime goes on as usual in the metropolis.

It's a superior story of a modern police force in action. And an excellent study of motivations of both the law-enforcing and law defying.

Fun With Faddists

THE GRASS LOVERS by Ronald M. Duetsch, Doubleday and Co., 258 pages, $4.50. Reviewed by M. Elizabeth Johnston.

Essentially a light entertaining novel about "The Great Grass Madness," this is also a book about people.

People like Sterling Paltry, drug and food investigator, who deplores "Tinselism" (a wooly way of thinking) but can't help liking its chief proponent, Ellis Tinsel (also originator of "Vitaturf").

People like Willa Waugh, Alaskan millionairess whose romance with Paltry begins in a startling, unclad way, and continues along unorthodox routes.

Anyone having a friend who frequents carrot juice shops and dotes on sesame seed candy bars will recognize some typical attitude among the characters that fill this book. Dramatic situations are well developed, and there are threads of philosophy in the plot pattern, ruminations on food fads and especially on "Tinselims" that are sadly humorous because they are so true of modern thinking.

Art Of Lampoon

HOW TO TALK AT GIN by Ernie Kovacs, Doubleday and Co., 144 pages, $2.95. Reviewed by Bryce Anderson.

Ernie Kovac's life ended tragically in an automobile crash, but the zaniness of his humor lives on with posthumous publication of "How to Talk at Gin."

The "gin," of course, refers to gin rummy. The opening words of his preface warn: "Within these pages, there is nothing whatsoever to be learned about playing the game of gin rummy." However, insists Kovacs, "no writer has discussed the dialogue and attitudes to be used when playing." He proceeds to do so.

Naturally, the dialogue and attitudes of gin rummy players, as set forth by Kovacs, are highly ludicrous. In fact, so are the players themselves —and their wives (especially the "martyr wife").

This is not to say that the whole thing is a ridiculous invention with no resemblance to actuality. There is a very definite resemblance to the actual dialogue, the actual players, and the actual wives. Sometimes the dialogue could well be verbatim out of that game you played last week.

This is the art of the lampoon, ably perpetrated.

TEDDY KOALA: MASCOT OF THE MARINES by Alice Curtis Desmond, illustrated by Sam Savitt, Dodd, Mead and Co., 94 pages, $2.79. Reviewed by Don Keown.

What animal has greater appeal for the youngster than the charming little koala bear? Any visitor to the zoo knows that the answer is — "none."

Mrs. Desmond with the imaginative aid of illustrator Savitt follows a young koala bear through a series of adventures in his native Australia — and then on to his final home in the San Diego zoo.

In so doing she succeeds in imparting to her young readers a considerable amount of accurate information about these and other Australian animals and about the land Down Under in general.

The grade school child from about the third on up will be delighted with the book—particularly if he or she has already enjoyed an acquaintance with the koalas during a visit to the zoo.

STEREO NOTES

Some Third-Stream Jazz With 'Far-Out' Artists

By JOHN SUNIER
Editor, Bay FM and Cultural Guide

JAZZ ABSTRACTIONS — Composed by Gunther Schuller and Jim Hall; Atlantic stereo SD 1365.

This is the disc to own if you wish to slowly feel your way into the murky area of so-called "third-stream" music.

The term is Schuller's and it refers to the recent attempt to create a new music partaking of the best of both classical and jazz developments.

Schuller feels there are already many parallels between really far-out jazz (such as Ornette Coleman) and modern atonal music. They both arrive at nearly the same sound, although they start out from different poles.

Schuller has here composed three works which allow such far-out jazzmen as Coleman and Eric Dolphy to improvise against his composed background: Abstraction, Variants on "Criss-Cross" by Thelonious Monk, and a gorgeously beautiful series of Variants on John Lewis' "Django."

Also heard is Piece for Guitar and Strings by Jim Hall, who also plays the guitar part.

This recording is the first of a series being produced by John Lewis of the Modern Jazz Quartet in an effort to bring to light "significant contributions in that area of contemporary music in which jazz has been, in one way or another, an important stimulating influence." Spoken like a scholar, Mr. Lewis, but the proof is in the listening. It works, that's all I need say.

The phenomenal bassist Scott LaFaro made his swansong with this album, and it is dedicated to his memory.

IN LUCAS VALLEY

The Little White Schoolhouse Is Now A Comfortable Home

By DON KEOWN

What was once a one-room schoolhouse is now the comfortable and attractive home of a Lucas Valley couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Barber acquired the old Loma Alta schoolhouse a decade ago.

SINCE THEN, they have been engaged in converting the school building into their dream home. That project, they report, is now virtually complete.

The large classroom of the frame building now serves as a spacious, 30 by 40 foot, combination living and sleeping area. When some or all of the Barbers' nine grandchildren descend upon them, as frequently occurs, something of dormitory size is a necessity.

What was once the girls' cloakroom is now a bath, and the boys' cloakroom an entrance hall.

The tiny school library now houses the Barbers' television set and family photo collection, and has become a small "entertainment center."

Additions to the building made by the Barbers have provided a kitchen and dining area, and a living room.

And what was once the school grounds provide the Barbers with yard space galore. There's even a brook which flows through the grounds, and over which the Barbers have built a rustic bridge.

The Lucas Valley setting provides the Barbers with marvelous scenery on all sides.

"Old-timers tell us that it was the beauty of the setting which caused it to be chosen as the school site in the first place," Mrs. Barber says.

Back before the turn of the century when the hunt for a site for a school to serve the area was under way, a number of ranchers were eager to donate the necessary land.

BUT THE one-acre parcel from the 2,000-acre Dias Ranch was finally selected for the Loma Alta school, the Barbers have been told, because "it was decided that it was the most beautiful spot in the valley."

Operation of the one-room school was suspended after the 1951-52 term. And it was shortly thereafter that the Barbers began their quest for the property.

At the time the Barbers were living in San Francisco where Mr. Barber was affiliated with American Trust Co. The couple kept a "shack" at Stinson Beach for weekends and summer vacations.

Then Barber's health suffered a setback and he was unable to enjoy the beach any longer.

But Barber, born and raised in San Rafael, had always yearned for a place in the Lucas Valley.

"HE USED TO rave about the peace and beauty of the valley," his wife says.

So she began driving around the Lucas Valley in search of a piece of property. And one day her drive took her past the abandoned Alto Loma School, then as now painted spotlessly white.

Her interest aroused, Mrs. Barber began checking records to determine the ownership of the school and grounds. It proved to be an involved procedure. But what she finally determined was that the abandonment of the school had caused the ownership of the property to revert back to the Dias family.

Mrs. Barber then began contacting the Dias heirs.

This, too, proved to be an exhaustive and sometimes disheartening job. But to make a long story short, persistence finally paid off. And the Bar-

THE SPACIOUS CLASSROOM of the Alta Loma schoolhouse now serves the Roy L. Barbers as a roomy combination living and sleeping area. When the grandchildren visit the Barbers, it becomes a dormitory. bers were able to purchase the land and building.

They then launched "Operation Conversion."

The Barbers used the schoolhouse as a weekend place only at first. But as improvements were made and Barber planned his retirement from his San Francisco job, it became their permanent home in 1955.

One big problem has been water.

The school well simply did not produce sufficient water to meet their needs. A second well was drilled, but still there was a water shortage in the summer when the water table level drops sharply.

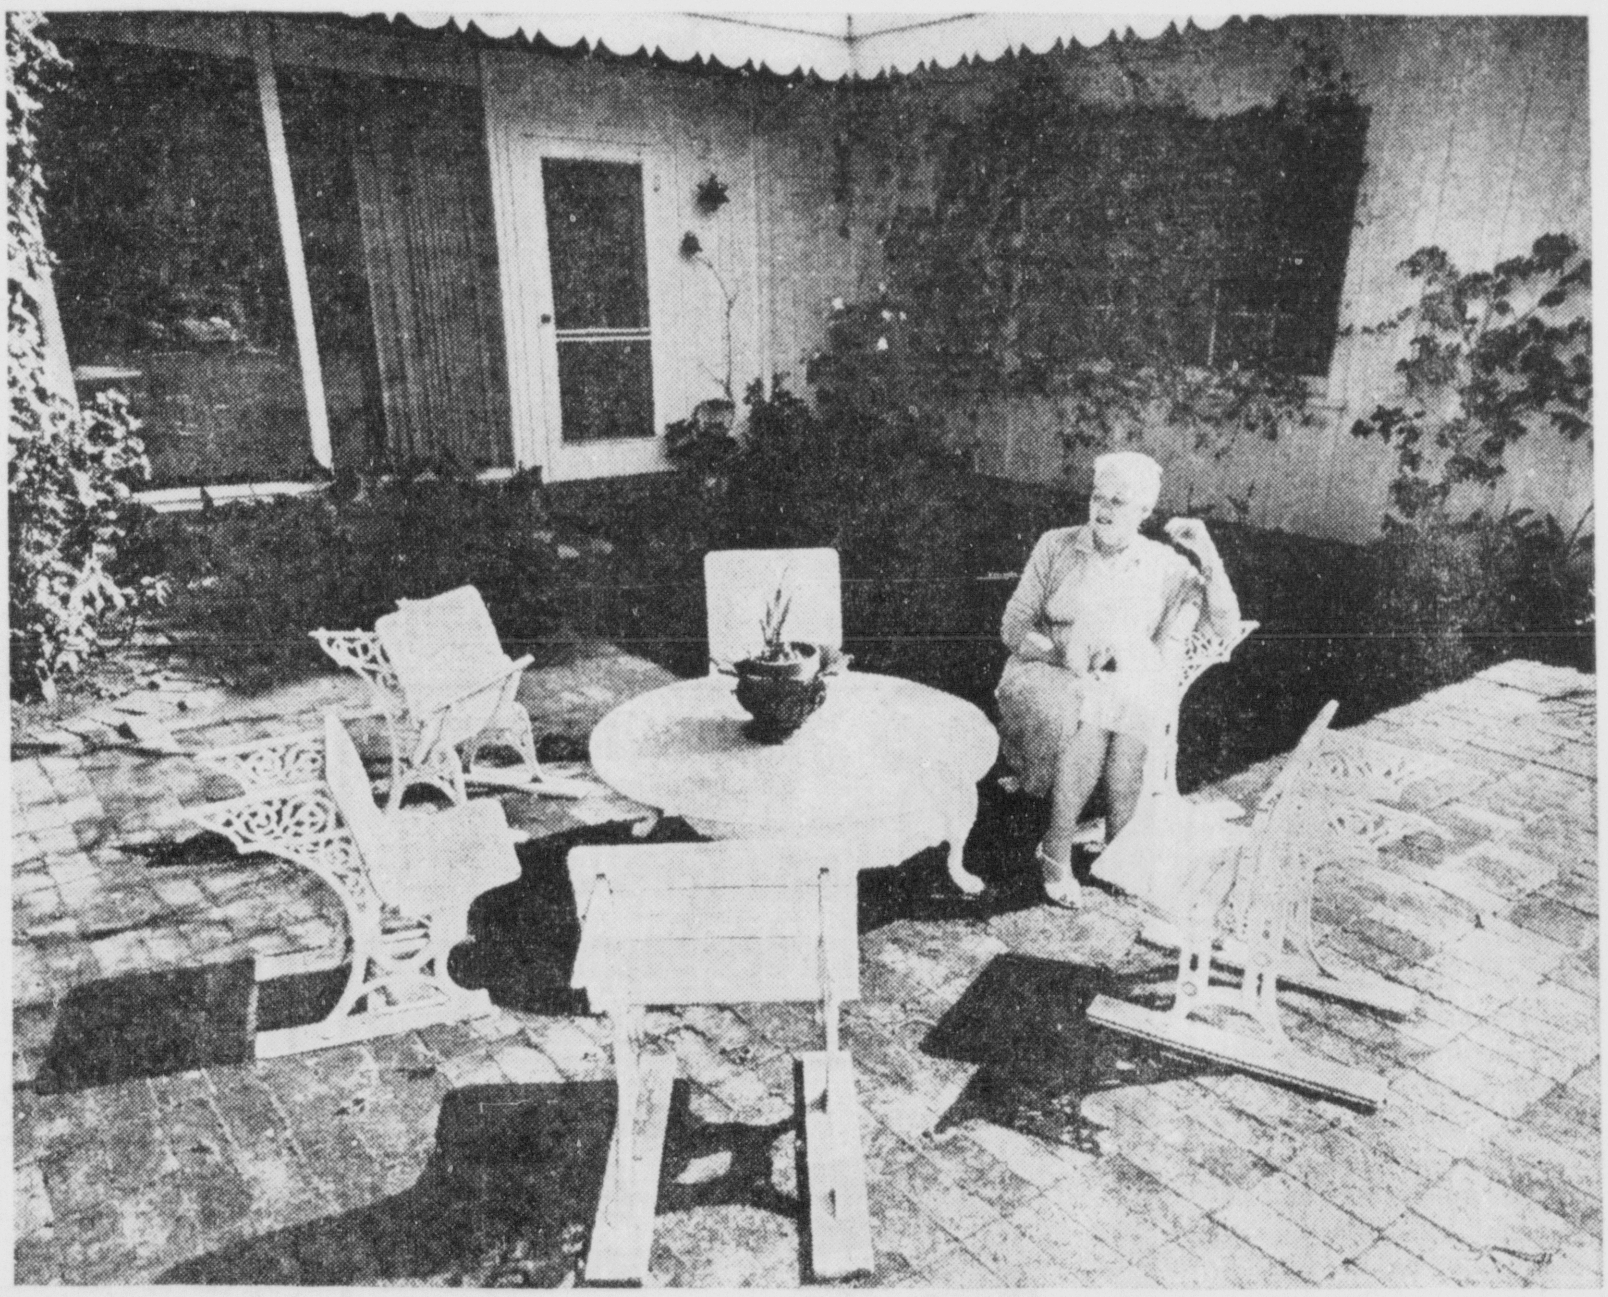

An 8,000 gallon tank to catch winter water for summer use has now been installed.

"And when that and the wells are gone, we simply have to haul in our water," Mrs. Barber says.

As a result, the Barbers have planted trees and shrubs but sparingly on the property. And those planted have been equipped with ceramic pipes to carry water to their roots so that no water will be wasted.

The two Chick Sales which served the school are still standing—painting a sparkling white on the outside, pink inside, with "his" and "her" signs—and replace the plumbing indoors during the late summer period as another water-saving step.

Another unusual problem which confronted the Barbers was the poison oak which flourished on their property.

EVEN THE OLD SCHOOL chairs have been put to use as patio furniture by the Barbers, as Mrs. Barber shows you here. The chairs and tables outdoors have been painted pink which sets off attractively the white of the house. (Additional photos on page M-18)

"AT FIRST, we kept it under control by keeping goats which ate the poison oak," Mrs. Barber says.

Now the goats are gone and it is Lulu Belle the burro who eats the poison oak and other weeds.

"Lulu Belle doesn't cut the grass as closely as the goats," Mrs. Barber explains the change. "And in addition, the grandchildren have the time of their lives riding her."

Lulu Bells isn't the only animal on the premises. The Barbers also keep a number of dogs.

The white of the freshly painted home—by Mrs. Barber—is set off to striking advantage by outside chairs and tables that are a salmon shade of pink.

The entire effect of the schoolhouse-turned-home is one of quaintness, of comfort and of beauty.

THIS EXPLAINS why the Barber home has become something of a "tourist attraction."

"More and more cars drive up on the road in front of the house and stop," Mrs. Barber says. "Some motorists even get out and walk up to the fence to look at the place more closely."

Such curiosity is proof to the Barbers that they have succeeded in transforming the little white schoolhouse into a home that is perfectly in place in the tranquil beauty of the Lucas Valley.

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

The other day, Turk Murphy brought me the latest RCA Stereo release of his band. Turk's band is one of the leading exponents of New Orleans Jazz. Whereas New Orleans has been the city of color and atmosphere, in recent years, San Francisco has become the home for the rough-and-ready good-time music of New Orleans. From Turk's own night club, "Earthquake McGoon's" on one end of Broadway, an entertainment strip that includes everything from jazz to opera, and from night clubs scattered all over San Francisco, you will find jazz thriving in the most colorful of surroundings.

Turk's new album is entitled "Let the Good Times Roll." The album is sort of a cross-section of his repertoire, featuring New Orleans jazz, blues, rags and stomps. Tunes like "Struttin' with Some Barbecue," "Terrible Blues," "Alexander's Ragtime Band," and "Butter and Egg Mann" are a typical example of what you will hear from this album.

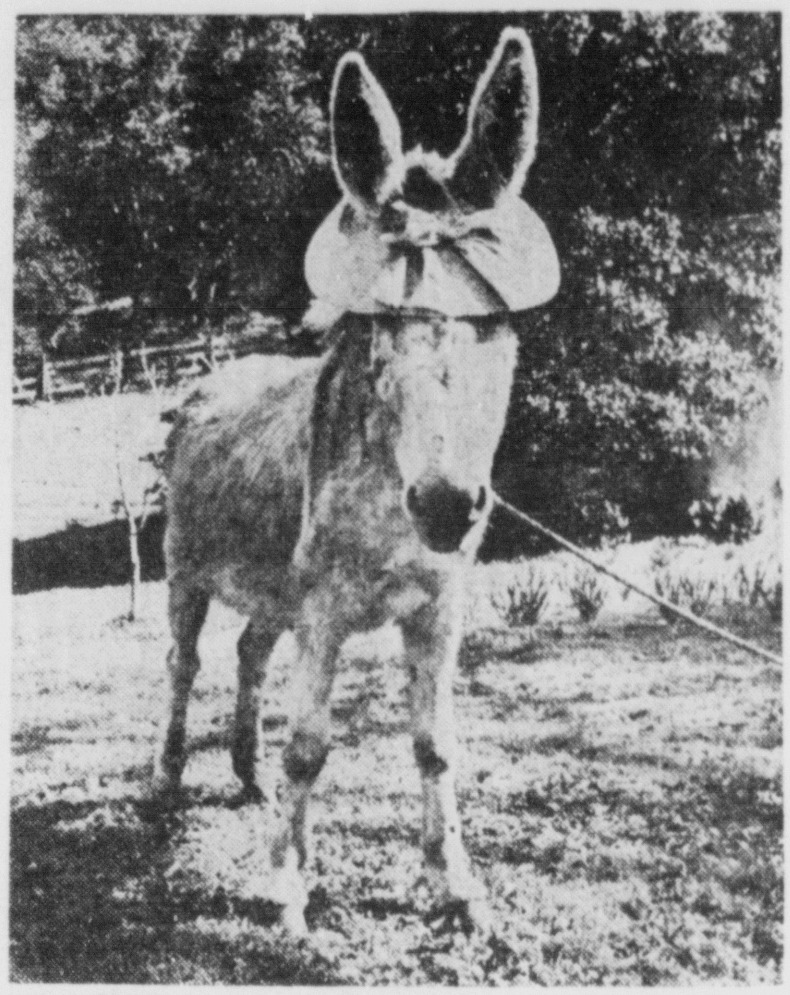

The RCA studios have given this album their "Dynamica" treatment. You will hear Ernie Carson's cornet gently swaying from one side of the stage to the other, back and forth across your stereo speaker system. The "Bilbao Song" written by Kurt Weill who wrote "Mack the Knife" will sweep you down the legendary Mississippi. In this tune pianist Pete Clute switches to a calliope. The steam calliope made history on the Mississippi River Boats, however, the RCA people had to settle for a compressed air version in the studios. It weighed 800 pounds, and had such a noisy motor that they had to cover it with quilted tarpaulins so that the noise would not overpower the band.

If you are wondering how good your home music system really is, pick up this latest of Turk's stereo RCA albums and listen to it carefully. Then for an evening of real atmosphere and enjoyment, visit "Earthquake McGoon's" on the Embarcadero end of Broadway in San Francisco. If your home music sounds like Turk Murphy's live music, then you have a good system. If not, come and see us.

MISSY THE MALTA is just one of the several dogs owned by the Barbers. But she enjoys some special privileges including this basket. In the background of this photo you can see the kitchen area which the Barbers added to the building. Eating facilities were also incorporated in the room.

LULU BELLE the burro, shown here sporting her Easter bonnet, is a most useful member of the Barber household. She has been instrumental in ridding the grounds of poison oak by the simple expedient of eating it. And she is also a popular playmate of the grandchildren, taking them on rides.

ANOTHER ADDITION which the Barbers made to the school building to provide themselves with more living room was this garden or living room which they added along the side.

THE COLEUS is a relatively rare plant in this country and the plant or its seed is not always easily found. But it's excellent as a house plant in that it thrives even in dim areas through the winter months. And outside, it is a good bet for the north side of the house or in moist areas under trees. This garden aristocrat is grown from seed produced in Japan and Holland, and features rich colors and huge leaves. (Ferry-Morse Seed Co. photo)

For Culinary Pleasure, Grow Herbs

The man who grows herbs within easy reach of his kitchen is one who enjoys the better things of life.

Like the home vegetable gardener, he knows the culinary pleasures which are unattainable to the cook who buys only from the neighborhood grocer.

With herbs, it is nice just to crush the leaves and sniff them as you pass by in the garden. But it is pure joy to pinch a spot of basil for a last minute addition to the soup pot, to garnish fried chicken with leaves of thyme or to freshen an iced drink with a sprig of mint.

The space required for growing herbs is so small that no garden should be without its share of these wonderful kitchen accessories. Herbs grow beautifully in pots or plant boxes. Indeed, herb growing is an art which even the apartment dweller can pursue provided he has access to a sunny window box or some small space either on the roof or in the backyard of his apartment house.

Most herbs are better and more aromatic if the soil they are planted in is on the poorer side. This does not mean they don't like attention, however.

Every Garden Should Have Its Share Of Delphiniums

Of all the colorful bedding plants available in California, there is none more bountiful than the Delphinium.

Not only in the full bloom beauty of its individual blooms, but in the fact that they come on three times every year, these lovely perennial larkspurs must be ranked as the best of our border beauties.

Delphiniums are so easy to grow that every garden should have its full share of them. You can buy them as flat grown seedlings or as well established field-grown clumps. These latter will bloom earlier and more spectacularly, but if you have the patience to wait, you will get more plants for your money with the seedlings.

According to the California Assn. of Nurserymen, the seedlings will give you good bloom this first year; the field-grown clumps will give spectacular bloom. Both will send up a second crop of color after the first fades, but the year-old clumps will grow a third crop in most gardens.

You should use Delphiniums for background color, where their tall spikes stand out against shrubbery or fence or wall. Clumping them close together, rather than stringing them apart usually makes for the best effect. And by using them with other bloom companions brings out the best in them.

CHECKLIST FOR MARIN GARDENERS

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Summer mums should be planted this month in a sunny place.
- If you planted a new lawn last month and it's filling out rapidly, resist the temptation to mow it. And when you finally do mow, don't cut it too closely.
- Now's the time to set out containers of fragrant lavender.
- It's also Transvaal Daisy planting time from nursery containers. They need perfect drainage and sunshine.
- And carnations may be planted now in a sunny spot in your garden.
- Keep in mind that mulching is the gardener's best protection against our dry summer—which isn't too far off now.

SEVERAL HUNDRED PAINTINGS in which the great masters of the late Middle Ages and Renaissance periods depicted the last days of Christ will be seen in "He Is Risen," an NBC Holy Season special to be shown tomorrow at 8:30 p. m. on KRON. Included will be "The Mocking of Christ" by Hieronymus Bosch from London's National Gallery which is pictured above. The "Project 20" program employs the same still-pictures-in-action technique as was used in the much-praised "Coming of Christ" show seen earlier.

THEY GOT LETTERS! In fact, they got 400,000 letters from viewers demanding that "The Law and Mr. Jones" series be returned to television. The stars of the series, James Whitmore and Janet DeGore, read a sampling from the avalanche of mail which protested the cancellation of the show. Consequently "Mr. Jones" returns to TV next week. It will be seen Thursday at 9:30 p. m. on KGO.
